One mikado is dead, his son and sucessor Hirohito too ill to attend his father's funeral rites.

Japan does not depend, any more than Britain does, on the health or wisdom of hereditary rulers. The eiders in Japan, the commons in England, decide what shall be done. The king and mikado say "yes."

Dr. Charlotte de Galiere Davenport, charming lady who lectures on health, looks about 40, and is actually 102 years old, starties good W. C. T. U.'s with this: "To live long, eat when hungry, exercise, drink moderately, don't smoke too much."

The lady has Russian and French blood, both good for long life, and, most important, she weighs 120 pounds. Your body is an irrigation farm. Your heart the pump. Your blood the water. A light body calls for light pumping making the heart's work easy. Cut down your weight, wisely, and add to your life. Every added pound means more work for the heart.

J. N. MOORE, University of Illinois sophomore, wrote, before killing himself, "It raises the devil with me to think of having to slave around and work like the devil and just grow old. I can't see the idea of wading through school, then dash bravely out and get a big old job at a hundred a month."

In six words of his letter the young man explains what is really the matter with him, "I am just spoiled I suppose."

THIS is written at the end of the twelfth trip, in 14 months, across this continent. Include in New Year resolutions a trip to the Pacific in 1927. Go once and you will go again.

Four 63-hour trains run from Chicago to the Pacific, all excellent, over the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Rock Island.

Each shows different sections of this big country. They all show, by daylight, territory through which slower trains have gone at night.

This writer proposes next time to use the "Golden State Limited," over the Rock Island, that connects with the Southern Pacific, and will take you the whole length of the Pacific coast.

Review-Tribune Offers to Readers New Map of Europe

European names are now given their native spelling on American maps. The geographical experts, the map companies, and the International Postal Union, have finally agreed on the right spellings to make the mails, cables, and business move more accurately. Travel agencies use the new spellings.

A NEW MAP of Europe is now complete, including all spelling corrections, and all changes made by the war. The new map is not yet on general sale, but since every home, office, and school will want one, our Washington Information Bureau has secured an advance supply, in seven colors, 21 by 28 inches, on heavy paper.

On the reverse of this map have been printed the latest figures of areas, populations, money values, foreign debts, commercial standings and other salient facts about each country.

As a special service to our readers, this new map, complete, is made available for a postage and handling charge of ten cents.

Chic Gandil Fails To Reach Chicago For Scandal Probe

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Chic Gandil, "Black Sox" first baseman, reported coming here from El Paso, Tex., to substantiate charges of "Swede" Risberg in the latest baseball scandal, did not arrive this morning as scheduled.

He is expected to testify at the resumption of Commissioner K. M. Landis' hearing tomorrow. Gandil is quoted as saying he will offer testimony of a more sensational character than Risberg's charges that Detroit pitchers "threw" a series to the White Sox in 1917.

SENATE PROTESTS AS U. S. NEUTRALITY CEASES IN NICARAGUAN CLASH

MORE AMERICAN MARINES LANDED

"This is Intervention," Says Senator Borah in Reference to State Department Policy in Civil War.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—More warships and marines were ordered rushed today to Nicaragua to reinforce the American naval forces that have occupied most of the country's principal ports and bottled up the Liberal revolutionists.

Three Warships Sail.

At the request of the state department, orders were issued at the navy department today for the dispatch of the U. S. S. Argonne with 400 marines, and two additional cruisers, the Marblehead and the Cincinnati, for "special duty" in Nicaraguan waters.

The disposition of these reinforcements was left to Rear Admiral Julian Latimer, the American commander in charge, and they may be used, it was stated, either on the Atlantic or Pacific coast of the country. The Sacasa Liberals control the Atlantic coast, while the Diaz government, with the aid of the American naval forces control the Pacific side.

The dispatch of the additional cruisers and personnel was ordered in the face of a threatened senate investigation of the administration's Central American policy, and was attributed to the state depart's belief that the 160 marines now stationed at Managua, the Diaz capital, are not sufficient to protect American and foreign interests.

With today's reinforcements, the United States will have six cruisers, seven destroyers, a transport ship, the

NADEL IS HELD FOR SECLUDING PAT M'DERMOTT

ALLEGED "ANGEL"

Reputed Rum Runner Will Face Trial Next Week.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 6.—Ben Nadel, ex-convict and reputed liquor runner, today was indicted by a Cuyahoga county grand jury on a charge of having provided and maintained a rendezvous where Patrick McDermott hid from police of the nation for three months before being captured and convicted of being one of the murderers of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News.

Nadel will be arraigned late today, according to Edward C. Stanton, county prosecutor, and brought to trial early next week in common pleas court here.

McDermott's alleged "angel" was arrested here yesterday after Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Slagle told police that they had hidden Pat in their apartment house at the request of Nadel, although they were unaware of the identity of their "guest."

Believes He Knows of Plot.

The Slagles' admission was corroborated and amplified later by another from Dan Praff, erstwhile companion of Nadel in underworld activities. Nadel is believed by authorities to be able to tell who conceived and engineered the plot to kill McDermott, thus clearing up all the details of the crime.

Yesterday when he was taken before Stanton he refused to admit acquaintance with either the Slagles, McDermott, Ben Rudner or Louis Mazer, the latter two yet to be tried for Mellett's murder.

FOSTORIA MAN'S DEATH SENTENCE COMMUTED; ANOTHER DIES FRIDAY

CONVICTED MAN SAYS HE ACTED IN SELF-DEFENSE IN SHOOTING

Executive, After Second Commutation to Life Imprisonment in Four Years, Stands Pat on Refusal to Heed Appeal of Robert Thompson, Murderer of Coshocton Girl.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Governor Vic Donahey this afternoon commuted the death sentence of Harley Pence, Fostoria, to life imprisonment. The governor's action was based upon recommendation of Common Pleas Judge Charles T. Warner, Columbus, trial judge.

Pence was to have been electrocuted at Ohio penitentiary here tonight. Although convicted of killing Mrs. Marjorie Boddy, also formerly of Fostoria, at their rooming house here last February, Pence claimed he acted in self-defense.

The governor extended clemency to Pence after receiving a letter from Judge Warner who stated that, "as trial judge, I am of the opinion that the ends of justice will be fully met by a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment."

"Much of the testimony that could not, under proper rules of evidence be admitted, precluded the jury from consideration of the same as reflecting upon the question of mercy," Judge Warner wrote Governor Donahey.

"I think the case is a proper one for commutation to life imprisonment."

Commuted Wife Slayer's Sentence.

Besides the commutation granted Pence, Governor Donahey, during his four years' service as governor of Ohio, has commuted the death sentence of one other prisoner to life imprisonment. The governor, on November 27, 1924, commuted the death sentence of James Brady, Erie county, to life. Brady was convicted of killing his wife.

Governor Donahey today stood pat on his refusal to commute the death sentence of Robert F. Thompson, 54, Coshocton, convicted of murdering 10-year-old Gertrude D'Ostroph near Coshocton last July.

Thompson is scheduled to be electrocuted at Ohio penitentiary Friday night.

Three Bandits Electrocued.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Mentally exhausted by nerve-racking interviews regarding desperate last-minute action in the case of the so-called Waltham car barn slayers and suffering from a severe cold and throat affection, Governor Alvan T. Fuller was under a doctor's care today.

The bandits, John J. Devereaux, Edward J. Heinlein and John J. McLaughlin, were electrocuted at the death house at Charlestown state's prison shortly after midnight, as a crowd of 1,500 persons waited in the streets outside.

All three died bravely, walking to the electric chair repeating a prayer.

Twin Border Towns Are Again Rocked By Violent Quakes

CALEXICO, Cal., Jan. 6.—A violent earthquake rocked Calexico and Mexicali at 8:44 a. m. today, tumbling down hundreds of walls already weakened by the series of shocks felt in the twin border cities since New Year's day.

The shock appeared to be of greater intensity than any one of its more than 100 predecessors. Considerable panic ensued as the populace poured out of collapsing buildings into debris-littered streets.

No fatalities or injuries have been reported.

City Lacks $293 Of $2,250 Quota In Health Drive

East Liverpool, one of Ohio's few honor cities in the annual health seal campaign, is $293.95 short of its $2,250 quota, representing 10 seals per capita, Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, chairman, announced today in a final appeal for funds.

Only bonds, which come in denominations of $5, $10, $25, $50 and $100, are now available. One $50 bond has been sold to the City Federation of Women's clubs, while $25 bonds were taken by the Eagles, Elks and Masonic lodges and the Crockery City Ice and Products company.

The campaign was to have closed in December but Mrs. Steinfeld will continue the drive for a few days in an effort to attain the quota.

FIRE DAMAGES TORRENCE HOME

Fire of undetermined origin, caused $100 damage to the two-story frame residence, occupied by Walter Torrence and family, West alley and Summit lane, at 10:20 o'clock this morning.

The fire, which started between the weatherboarding and the plaster, damaged the floor and ate its way into the eves of the house.

Wrist Fractured In Fall.

Mrs. Lottie Corwin, 1511 St. Clair avenue, sustained a fracture of the right wrist when she slipped and fell on the sidewalk near the Northside drug store, St. Clair avenue and North street, last night. She was removed to the City hospital where the fracture was reduced by Dr. C. H. Bailey.

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS CONTRIBUTED $42,450 FOR STREET IMPROVEMENT, REPAIR AND MAINTENANCE HERE DURING 1926

Automobile owners contributed $42,450 for street improvement, repair and maintanence in East Liverpool during 1926, Auditor William McGraw said today. Of this amount approximately $38,250 has been spent or will be paid out when all 1926 bills are settled, leaving a balance of $4,200.

The municipality's share of automobile licenses issued here was approximately $24,000, which goes into the street maintenence and repair fund, while approximately $18,450 was collected in gasoline taxes. Money from licenses is apportioned by the county auditor's office while the gasoline taxes are disbursed by the state auditor. Settlements are made quarterly.

The actual collections from the sale of 1926 plates returned to East Liverpool were $18,731.47. In addition to this $5,442.84 was forwarded last January, representing a final settlement on money collected from the sale of 1925 tags. The balance in the street maintenance and repair fund at the beginning of 1926 was a little more than $2,000 but owing to a debt of $10,800, caused by the improvement of Mulberry and Second streets, the actual deficit at the beginning of the year was more than $8,000, city officials said.

Pay for Resurfacing Jobs.

The first apportionment of 1926 receipts was used to meet the $10,000 debt which council had authorized during the fall of 1925 to pay the contractors for the two resurfacing jobs.

Another big drain was the $10,000 appropriation for the grading of Dresden avenue to connect with the new Youngstown-East Liverpool inter-county highway. The balance was spent for street patching and other maintenance work.

The $18,450, collected in gasoline taxes was used largely to maintain the street department, according to Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore. Had it not been for this fund, the city would have been forced to lay off practically every street department employe at the beginning of the year, Moore said.

In the gas tax fund at the present there is about $4,570. Bills, estimated between $600 and $700, contracted for prior to January 1, 1927, are yet to be paid. The balance will go toward street work this year.

In the maintanence and repair fund, there was a Jan. 1 balance of $319, the auditor said. This fund is expected to jump to the $10,000 mark when the county auditor makes his returns for January, which will be received early in February.

Proposed Improvements.

Major street improvements which will be taken this year include the Fourth street resurfacing job, which is now held up by a court action; resurfacing of Pennsylvania avenue from the Garfield school east and the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue, contract for which has been awarded and work on which will start early in the spring.

County Auditor Walker said today that county road fund's share of motor car license receipts during the year was $18,412.71.

In addition, $40,000 was paid in gasoline taxes. In all, the fund received $58,412.71, which is the largest amount ever credited in one year since the automobile came into general use.

Distribution of Fund.

Aside from East Liverpool and Wellsville, the distribution of automobile license money during 1926 was as follows: East Palestine, $3,708.53; Salem, $8,849.84; Leetonia, $1,411.36; Rogers, $190.23; Hanover, $224.51; Columbiana, $2,468.46; New Waterford, $337.10; Lisbon, $3,131.74; Salineville, $1,372.66; Washingtonville, $244.22; total distribution $45,134.99.

The state shared to the extent of $62,480.42.

January proved to be the largest month for distribution as $24,483.71 was paid to corporations. April was the second largest, with a distribution of $3,492.95.

The distribution for December, the smallest of the year, was, East Liverpool, $31.13; Salem, $41.14; Wellsville, $8; Leetonia, Lisbon and Salineville $2 each; Columbiana $6; New Waterford $2.30. The state received $139.94, the county $45.37 and the several corporations $94.57.

In the county 13,788 automobile licenses were issued during the year. The distribution was as follows: East Liverpool, 5,274; Salem, 2,839; Wellsville, 1,442; East Palestine, 1,201; Lisbon, 1,020; Columbiana, 691; Salineville, 495; Leetonia, 442; New Waterford, 121; Washingtonville, 103; Hanoverton 79; Rogers 71.

FOSTORIA MAN'S DEATH SENTENCE COMMUTED; ANOTHER DIES FRIDAY

CONVICTED MAN SAYS HE ACTED IN SELF-DEFENSE IN SHOOTING

Executive, After Second Commutation to Life Imprisonment in Four Years, Stands Pat on Refusal to Heed Appeal of Robert Thompson, Murderer of Coshocton Girl.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Governor Vic Donahey this afternoon commuted the death sentence of Harley Pence, Fostoria, to life imprisonment. The governor's action was based upon recommendation of Common Pleas Judge Charles T. Warner, Columbus, trial judge.

Pence was to have been electrocuted at Ohio penitentiary here tonight. Although convicted of killing Mrs. Marjorie Boddy, also formerly of Fostoria, at their rooming house here last February, Pence claimed he acted in self-defense.

The governor extended clemency to Pence after receiving a letter from Judge Warner who stated that, "as trial judge, I am of the opinion that the ends of justice will be fully met by a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment."

"Much of the testimony that could not, under proper rules of evidence be admitted, precluded the jury from consideration of the same as reflecting upon the question of mercy," Judge Warner wrote Governor Donahey.

Commuted Wife Slayer's Sentence.

Besides the commutation granted Pence, Governor Donahey, during his four years' service as governor of Ohio, has commuted the death sentence of one other prisoner to life imprisonment. The governor, on November 27, 1924, commuted the death sentence of James Brady, Erie county, to life. Brady was convicted of killing his wife.

Governor Donahey today stood pat on his refusal to commute the death sentence of Robert F. Thompson, 54, Coshocton, convicted of murdering 10-year-old Gertrude D'Ostroph near Coshocton last July.

Thompson is scheduled to be electrocuted at Ohio penitentiary Friday night.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Mentally exhausted by nerve-racking interviews regarding desperate last-minute action in the case of the so-called Waltham car barn slayers and suffering from a severe cold and throat affection, Governor Alvan T. Fuller was under a doctor's care today.

The bandits, John J. Devereaux, Edward J. Heinlein and John J. McLaughlin, were electrocuted at the death house at Charlestown state's prison shortly after midnight, as a crowd of 1,500 persons waited in the streets outside.

All three died bravely, walking to the electric chair repeating a prayer.

Twin Border Towns Are Again Rocked By Violent Quakes

The shock appeared to be of greater intensity than any one of its more than 100 predecessors. Considerable panic ensued as the populace poured out of collapsing buildings into debris-littered streets.

No fatalities or injuries have been reported.

City Lacks $293 Of $2,250 Quota In Health Drive

East Liverpool, one of Ohio's few honor cities in the annual health seal campaign, is $293.95 short of its $2,250 quota, representing 10 seals per capita, Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, chairman, announced today in a final appeal for funds.

Only bonds, which come in denominations of $5, $10, $25, $50 and $100, are now available. One $50 bond has been sold to the City Federation of Women's clubs, while $25 bonds were taken by the Eagles, Elks and Masonic lodges and the Crockery City Ice and Products company.

The campaign was to have closed in December but Mrs. Steinfeld will continue the drive for a few days in an effort to attain the quota.

Automobile owners contributed $42,450 for street improvement, repair and maintanence in East Liverpool during 1926, Auditor William McGraw said today. Of this amount approximately $38,250 has been spent or will be paid out when all 1926 bills are settled, leaving a balance of $4,200.

The municipality's share of automobile licenses issued here was approximately $24,000, which goes into the street maintenence and repair fund, while approximately $18,450 was collected in gasoline taxes. Money from licenses is apportioned by the county auditor's office while the gasoline taxes are disbursed by the state auditor. Settlements are made quarterly.

The actual collections from the sale of 1926 plates returned to East Liverpool were $18,731.47. In addition to this $5,442.84 was forwarded last January, representing a final settlement on money collected from the sale of 1925 tags. The balance in the street maintenance and repair fund at the beginning of 1926 was a little more than $2,000 but owing to a debt of $10,800, caused by the improvement of Mulberry and Second streets, the actual deficit at the beginning of the year was more than $8,000, city officials said.

Pay for Resurfacing Jobs.

The first apportionment of 1926 receipts was used to meet the $10,000 debt which council had authorized during the fall of 1925 to pay the contractors for the two resurfacing jobs.

Another big drain was the $10,000 appropriation for the grading of Dresden avenue to connect with the new Youngstown-East Liverpool inter-county highway. The balance was spent for street patching and other maintenance work.

The $18,450, collected in gasoline taxes was used largely to maintain the street department, according to Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore. Had it not been for this fund, the city would have been forced to lay off practically every street department employe at the beginning of the year, Moore said.

In the gas tax fund at the present there is about $4,570. Bills, estimated between $600 and $700, contracted for prior to January 1, 1927, are yet to be paid. The balance will go toward street work this year.

In the maintanence and repair fund, there was a Jan. 1 balance of $319, the auditor said. This fund is expected to jump to the $10,000 mark when the county auditor makes his returns for January, which will be received early in February.

Proposed Improvements.

Major street improvements which will be taken this year include the Fourth street resurfacing job, which is now held up by a court action; resurfacing of Pennsylvania avenue from the Garfield school east and the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue, contract for which has been awarded and work on which will start early in the spring.

County Auditor Walker said today that county road fund's share of motor car license receipts during the year was $18,412.71.

In addition, $40,000 was paid in gasoline taxes. In all, the fund received $58,412.71, which is the largest amount ever credited in one year since the automobile came into general use.

Distribution of Fund.

Aside from East Liverpool and Wellsville, the distribution of automobile license money during 1926 was as follows: East Palestine, $3,708.53; Salem, $8,849.84; Leetonia, $1,411.36; Rogers, $190.23; Hanover, $224.51; Columbiana, $2,468.46; New Waterford, $337.10; Lisbon, $3,131.74; Salineville, $1,372.66; Washingtonville, $244.22; total distribution $45,134.99.

The state shared to the extent of $62,480.42.

January proved to be the largest month for distribution as $24,483.71 was paid to corporations. April was the second largest, with a distribution of $3,492.95.

The distribution for December, the smallest of the year, was, East Liverpool, $31.13; Salem, $41.14; Wellsville, $8; Leetonia, Lisbon and Salineville $2 each; Columbiana $6; New Waterford $2.30. The state received $139.94, the county $45.37 and the several corporations $94.57.

In the county 13,788 automobile licenses were issued during the year. The distribution was as follows: East Liverpool, 5,274; Salem, 2,839; Wellsville, 1,442; East Palestine, 1,201; Lisbon, 1,020; Columbiana, 691; Salineville, 495; Leetonia, 442; New Waterford, 121; Washingtonville, 103; Hanoverton 79; Rogers 71.

The Little White Hag

BY FRANCIS BEEDING

©BY LITTLE, BROWN AND CO. RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N

SYNOPSIS.

Quexter, the narrator of the tale, is an American employed by the American and Overseas bank in Paris. He starts for Geneva to see the workings of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijon between trains. He is accosted by a small, undistinguished looking American who asks to share his room, stating that he is a schoolmaster. As the two lunch at the inn their attention is attracted by two people, a stout, flashily dressed man and a young and attractive woman.

The "schoolmaster" seems nervous, fussing about the locks on door all night. Quexter discovers that the story he had told about being imperfectly acquainted with French is false. Quexter sleeps heavily and next morning the schoolmaster is gone—through the window evidently, as the door is still locked on the inside.

Arrived in Geneva, Quexter visits the League of Nations headquarters, learning of the League's investigations into the opium traffic. He goes to the municipal casino or kursaal, and at the next table sits the fat man he had seen at Dijon with another man, a Jew, and a woman of the underworld. He overhears their conversation in which the fat man complains about a woman called "Stella," whom he does not trust, and a mysterious "Center" under whose orders the two men and "Stella" seem to be. A dancing girl carrying a basket of flowers steps to the center of the floor and Baldassare, the fat man, exclaims, "Stella at last!" Shee throws two bouquets, Quexter picking up one and the fat man the other. In his bunch Quexter finds a handkerchief which he uses to wrap up his finger when his taxi meets with an accident and it is cut. He sends the handkerchief to the laundry next morning. The fat man, Baldassare Marce, makes him a call.

Read chapter six to learn of Signor Marce's odd demand and what answer Quexter gives him.

CHAPTER SIX.

Its owner appeared almost at once, following the page boy. I recognized him immediately. It was the man from Dijon who had been seated at the net table to mine at the Kursaal on the previous evening.

I rose.

"Mr. Quexter?" he said to me interrogatively.

I bowed and motioned him to sit down.

"You wish to speak to me?" I began.

He did not reply immediately, but looked at me in an odd manner, turning his head on one side, in order to bring his uninjured eye to bear. He squinted horribly and, in his tight-fitting blue suit, with the small diamond pin glittering in his tie, he was far from an engaging spectacle.

I watched him narrowly and soon noticed that he was nervous. There were small beads of sweat on his forehead, and his left hand played with the binding on the arm of his chair. I waited for him in silence.

At last he said, in excellent English, though with a marked foreign accent:

"It's a fine day, is it not, Monsieur?"

I assented.

"A very fine day for the time of year," he went on. "Monsieur knows Geneva."

"No," I replied.

"Monsieur has never been here before?"

"No."

"Monseur comes from the United States, perhaps?"

This persistent questioning nettled me, especially as I had taken a strong dislike to the man.

"Perhaps," I said shortly. "Why do you ask me these questions?"

He turned his head sideways, so as to fix me with the other eye. He was really a most unpleasant creature.

"Ecuse me," he said, "but you received a bunch of flowers last night in the Kursaal—from a dancing girl."

"Well?" I queried.

"Have you got it with you still?"

The man was getting on my nerves.

"I beg your pardon," I said, "but what business is it of yours?"

"I am very anxious to obtain it," he said eagerly. "It is nothing to you. I ask you as a favor to give it to me."

He leaned forward as he spoke, and the one eye fixed directly upon me shone with excitement.

"Why do you want it?" I inquired.

I thought is was now my turn to ask some questions.

"They were not meant for you," he replied, falsetto and volubie. "You are American. You do not understand our Southern temperament. It is warm, passionate. Those flowers were meant for me. I am her lover, do you understand? They were meant for me. I look for them every night."

He went on like this for some time, a grotesque figure, large and loose, with greedy eyes, an unpleasant example of the man of fifty who refuses decently to grow old.

I contrasted him in my mind's eye with the slim form of the girl I had seen dancing, for, although she had made no particular impression on me at the time, I had noticed that she was graceful and young.

I cut short his dreadful protestations.

"Sir," I said shortly, "if I remember rightly, you had your flowers last night. Two bunches were thrown."

"Yes, but it was the wrong one," he wailed. "It did not contain her handkerchief. Monsieur, she promised me her handkerchief, and it must be in the other bouquet."

He seemed almost on the verge of tears, and he leaned farther forward over the little table between us, which still held the remains of my breakfast.

"There was only one bunch of white carnations," he said eagerly. "There never is more than one. I mean, Monsieur, that there is never more than one of the same color. So you see," he ended lamely, "the handkerchief must have been in yours."

I looked searchingly at the man who pretended to be so helplessly love lorn. His emotion, which, if genuine, might have been pathetic or grotesque, had a quality which made it merely repulsive. I divined, in fact, that he was shamming, and that I was dealing with a thoroughly disagreeable brute, enacting, for some purpose unknown, the role of a man of sentiment. I remembered, for one thing, that on the previous evening he had been in the company of one "Didi," to whose charms he had not, to say the least, seemed wholly indifferent.

I thought well to remind him of the fact.

"Well, Sir," I said, "naturally I do not wish to intrude upon sentiments of so intimate a character. If the kerchief means so much to you, I suppose I must take steps to have it restored. But——"

I paused, and his ugly face, which had lit up with eager anticipation at my opening words, changed as swiftly as if it had been struck.

"Well?" he said, his voice harsh and out of all control.

"There was another lady seated at your table last night," I continued sweetly, "with whom you seemed to be on very excellent terms; that is all."

"That girl," stammered the man, "she knows all about it, I assure you. She, you see, is my sister."

Now I knew that he was lying and I was not in the least inclined to grant his request for the handkerchief. I was more than ever sure that the motive he alleged for its recovery was false, and I was beginning to find the whole affair suspicious, though I had not the least idea what it was I suspected.

"How did you know I was staying here?" I asked him suddenly.

He shifted his head again, bringing his other eye into play.

"I followed you home," he confessed, obviously afraid that I might take it ill. "I would have spoken to you last night but you were walking with a gendarme."

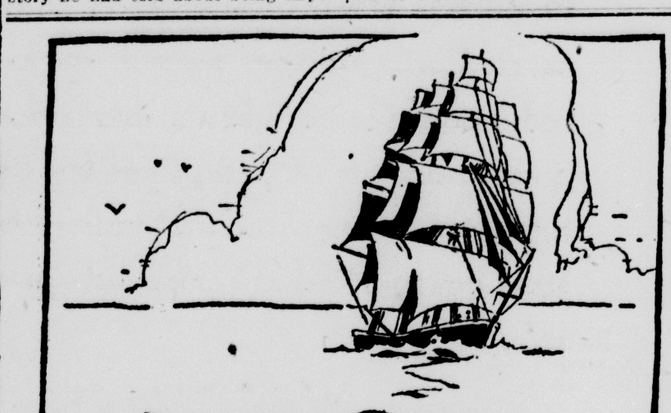

"I don't like being followed," I said sharply. "And I'm beginning to think that this conversation has lasted long enough."

"But the handkerchief," he persisted.

"Leave me your address, and I'll see what I can do about it," I replied with an air of dismissal.

SYNOPSIS.

Quexter, the narrator of the tale, is an American employed by the American and Overseas bank in Paris. He starts for Geneva to see the workings of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijon between trains. He is accosted by a small, undistinguished looking American who asks to share his room, stating that he is a schoolmaster. As the two lunch at the inn their attention is attracted by two people, a stout, flashily dressed man and a young and attractive woman.

The "schoolmaster" seems nervous, fussing about the locks on door all night. Quexter discovers that the story he had told about being imperfectly acquainted with French is false. Quexter sleeps heavily and next morning the schoolmaster is gone—through the window evidently, as the door is still locked on the inside.

Arrived in Geneva, Quexter visits the League of Nations headquarters, learning of the League's investigations into the opium traffic. He goes to the municipal casino or kursaal, and at the next table sits the fat man he had seen at Dijon with another man, a Jew, an I a woman of the underworld. He overhears their conversation in which the fat man complains about a woman called "Stella," whom he does not trust, and a mysterious "Center" under whose orders the two men and "Stella" seem to be. A dancing girl carrying a basket of flowers steps to the center of the floor and Baldassare, the fat man, exclaims, "Stella at last!" Shee throws two bouquets, Quexter picking up one and the fat man the other. In his bunch Quexter finds a handkerchief which he uses to wrap up his finger when his taxi meets with an accident and it is cut. He sends the handkerchief to the laundry next morning. The fat man, Baldassare Marce, makes him a call.

Read chapter six to learn of Signor Marce's odd demand and what answer Quexter gives him.

CHAPTER SIX.

Its owner appeared almost at once, following the page boy. I recognized him immediately. It was the man from Dijon who had been seated at the net table to mine at the Kursaal on the previous evening.

I rose.

"Mr. Quexter?" he said to me interrogatively.

I bowed and motioned him to sit down.

"You wish to speak to me?" I began.

He did not reply immediately, but looked at me in an odd manner, turning his head on one side, in order to bring his uninjured eye to bear. He squinted horribly and, in his tight-fitting blue suit, with the small diamond pin glittering in his tie, he was far from an engaging spectacle.

I watched him narrowly and soon noticed that he was nervous. There were small beads of sweat on his forehead, and his left hand played with the binding on the arm of his chair. I waited for him in silence.

At last he said, in excellent English, though with a marked foreign accent: "It's a fine day, is it not, Monsieur?"

I assented.

"A very fine day for the time of year," he went on. "Monsieur knows Geneva."

"No," I replied.

"Monsieur has never been here before?"

"No."

"Monsieur comes from the United States, perhaps?"

This persistent questioning nettled me, especially as I had taken a strong dislike to the man.

"Perhaps," I said shortly. "Why do you ask me these questions?"

He turned his head sideways, so as to fix me with the other eye. He was really a most unpleasant creature.

"Ecuse me," he said, "but you received a bunch of flowers last night in the Kursaal—from a dancing girl."

"Well?" I queried.

"Have you got it with you still?"

The man was getting on my nerves.

"I beg your pardon," I said, "but what business is it of yours?"

"I am very anxious to obtain it," he said eagerly. "It is nothing to you. I ask you as a favor to give it to me."

He leaned forward as he spoke, and the one eye fixed directly upon me shone with excitement.

"Why do you want it?" I inquired.

I thought is was now my turn to ask some questions.

"They were not meant for you," he replied, falsetto and voluble. "You are American. You do not understand our Southern temperament. It is warm, passionate. Those flowers were meant for me. I am her lover, do you understand? They were meant for me. I look for them every night."

He went on like this for some time, a grotesque figure, large and loose, with greedy eyes, an unpleasant example of the man of fifty who refuses decently to grow old.

I contrasted him in my mind's eye with the slim form of the girl I had seen dancing, for, although she had made no particular impression on me at the time, I had noticed that she was graceful and young.

I cut short his dreadful protestations.

"Sir," I said shortly, "if I remember rightly, you had your flowers last night. Two bunches were thrown."

"Yes, but it was the wrong one," he wailed. "It did not contain her handkerchief. Monsieur, she promised me her handkerchief, and it must be in the other bouquet."

He seemed almost on the verge of tears, and he leaned farther forward over the little table between us, which still held the remains of my breakfast.

"There was only one bunch of white carnations," he said eagerly. "There never is more than one, I mean, Monsieur, that there is never more than one of the same color. So you see," he ended lamely, "the handkerchief must have been in yours."

I looked searchingly at the man who pretended to be so helplessly love-lorn. His emotion, which, if genuine, might have been pathetic or grotesque, had a quality which made it merely repulsive. I divined, in fact, that he was shamming, and that I was dealing with a thoroughly disagreeable brute, enacting, for some purpose unknown, the role of a man of sentiment. I remembered, for one thing, that on the previous evening he had been in the company of one "Didi," to whose charms he had not, to say the least, seemed wholly indifferent.

I thought well to remind him of the fact.

"Well, Sir," I said, "naturally I do not wish to intrude upon sentiments of so intimate a character. If the kerchief means so much to you, I suppose I must take steps to have it restored. But——"

I paused, and his ugly face, which had lit up with eager anticipation at my opening words, changed as swiftly as if it had been struck.

"Well?" he said, his voice harsh and out of all control.

"There was another lady seated at your table last night," I continued sweetly, "with whom you seemed to be on very excellent terms; that is all."

"That girl," stammered the man, "she knows all about it, I assure you. She, you see, is my sister."

Now I knew that he was lying and I was not in the least inclined to grant his request for the handkerchief. I was more than ever sure that the motive he alleged for its recovery was false, and I was beginning to find the whole affair suspicious, though I had not the least idea what it was I suspected.

"How did you know I was staying here?" I asked him suddenly.

He shifted his head again, bringing his other eye into play.

"I followed you home," he confessed, obviously afraid that I might take it ill. "I would have spoken to you last night but you were walking with a gendarme."

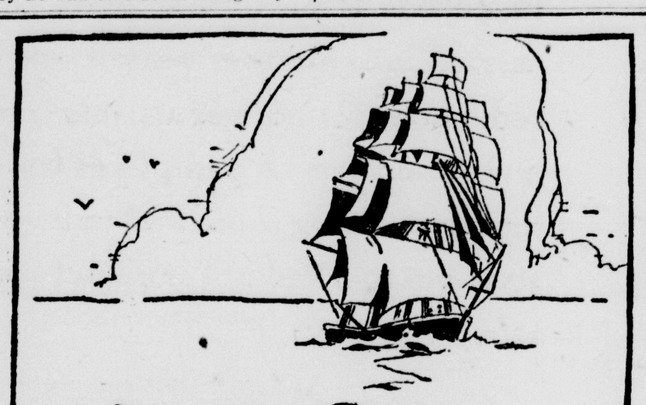

"I don't like being followed," I said sharply. "And I'm beginning to think that this conversation has lasted long enough."

"But the handkerchief," he persisted.

"Leave me your address, and I'll see what I can do about it," I replied with an air of dismissal.

Republican leaders from all sections of the state met at Charleston this week when organization of the legislature which meets next Wednesday was discussed.

There promises to be a sharp fight for presiding officers of both houses where several candidates seek the speakership, while a like number aspire to preside over the deliberations of the senate.

The usual caucuses will be held next Tuesday night when candidates will be selected by both parties.

Corn Borer Ban.

QUIT GETTING UP NIGHTS

A Healthy Bladder Acts During the Day

C. N. Shuman, Republic, Ohio, says: "Before taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) had to get up six or seven times each night. Now I do not get up at all. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) increases the action during the day. EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1927.

Chamber of Commerce Speaker

With the selection of United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, as the speaker for the eleventh annual Chamber of Commerce dinner to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, January 18, East Liverpool business and professional men and their guests will be given an opportunity to hear a possible candidate for a place on the Democratic party's national ticket in 1928.

Dr. Copeland, as he is familiarly known because of his medical profession and his newspaper contributions on health subjects, is high in the councils of the leaders of the party of Jefferson and not infrequently has been referred to as a compromise possibility for the presidential or vice-presidential nomination in the event of a repetition of the Al Smith-William G. McAdoo stalemate which characterized the Madison Garden convention of 1924.

Varied indeed has been the career of Senator Copeland. Native of Michigan, ophthalmologist, post-graduate of medicine in England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Belgium, practitioner in Bay City, Mich., where he later served as mayor, and in after years commissioner of public health and president of the board of education in New York City are some of the milestones of his life. And, too, he has been active in national and international affairs of the Methodist Episcopal church, is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and has been honored with places of distinction by homeopathic and medical associations. Besides his health articles in newspapers, he is the author of "Refraction," a text book, and "Scientific Reasonableness of Homeopathy."

As in past years, the Chamber of Commerce committee sought an outstanding public man as the guest of honor for the annual meeting. Thanks to their efforts, members and friends of the organization have heard with interest the late Warren S. Stone, for many years leader of one of the railroad brotherhoods; Geoge Creel, who was government news censor during the World war; Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy during the administrations of Woodrow Wilson, and others. And now a man of equal calibre has accepted an invitation.

A New Iron Age

A new reduction process for iron ore has come in which bids fair to revolutionize the steel and iron business of the world. It is called the Hornsey process, from John H. Hornsey, metallurgical engineer, formerly of New York, who has been working out its details in England.

The National Tube company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, is sufficiently convinced of its practicality to be spending several millions in installing it at Lorain.

The cost is said to be only one-third as much as by the old method. Less heat is required. Low grade coal can be used instead of expensive coke.

If the Hornsey method proves as satisfactory as its owners and pushers think it is going to be, it will mean that most of the present blast furnaces will have to be scrapped. There will be far-reaching consequences in the steel industry all over the world, many of them impossible now to foresee.

It is too soon yet to know whether all the imposing predictions will come true, whether steel will become cheaper than wood, whether ore can be reduced at the mines, changing the whole lake shipping situation.

But stranger and more unsettling things than this have happened in the century just past. Scrapping old machinery never dismayed an American corporation if in place of it could be installed machinery and methods which would soon pay for themselves and for the apparent waste. If the people directly concerned know and understand the change that is coming and make themselves ready to accept it instead of fighting it, the change need not be disrupting.

Study For The Legion

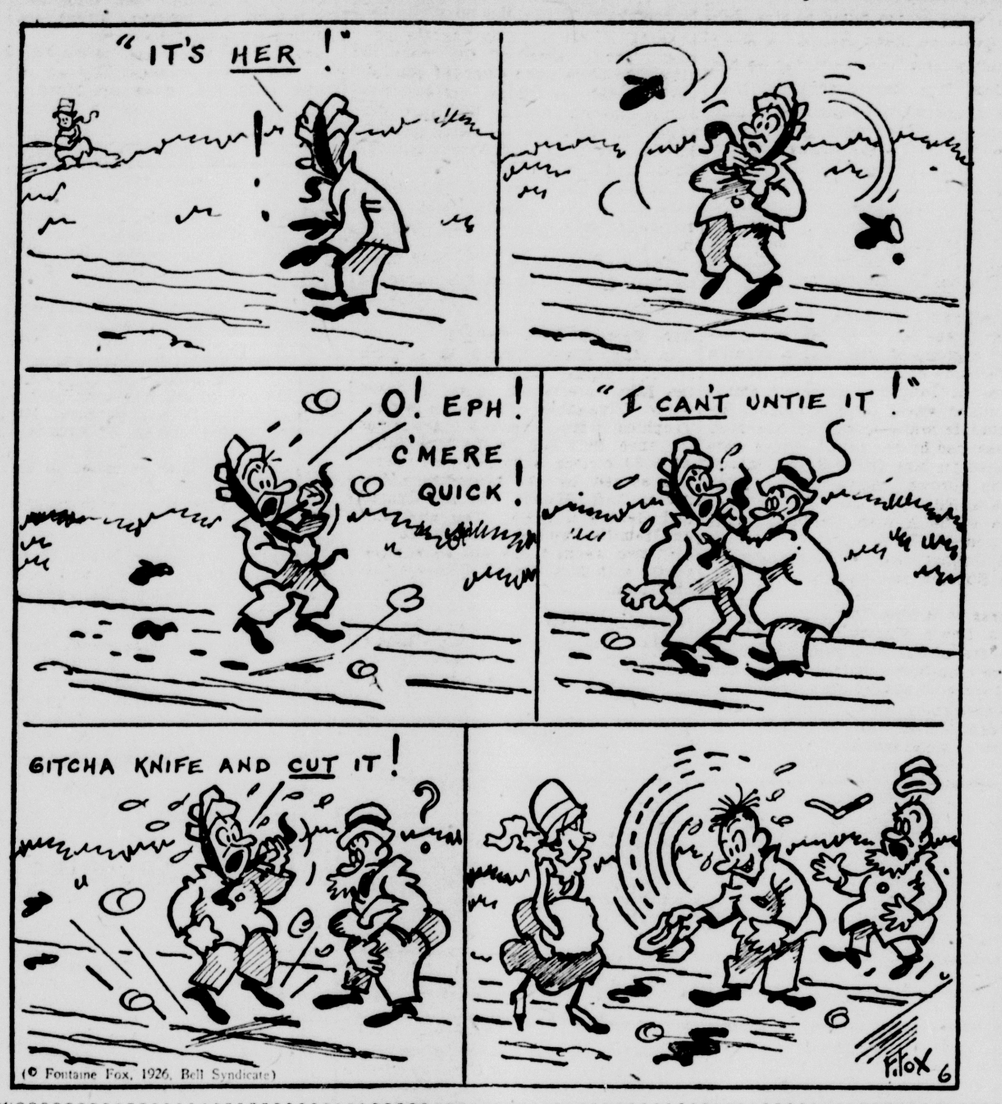

A London dispatch reports that the "Come to Britain" organization is going to make special efforts to induce the 13,000 American Legionnaires who go to Paris for their next convention to visit England while they are abroad. The things the British group will offer as inducements are worth nothing.

First it is trying to bring about improvements in hotel facilities. Also it seeks the abolition of the $10 visa charge. And lastly it expects to hurry developments of more and better summer schools at English universities.

This last inducement may cause a smile to such as think study is the last thing the Legionnaires are crossing the Atlantic for. But the smilers might be surprised to learn how many Americans are studying in England these days and how many more want to do so. A good many members of the A. E. F. who are now members of the American Legion studied in both France and England during and after the World War and won't scorn the chance to do so again.

Gunboat activities in China show, among other things, that with all her backwardness that country has kept her rivers navigable.

AN OLD ONE AND ITS YOUNGER HALF-BROTHER.

Everybody does know—or should know—the ancient wheeze of the theatre manager who posted a sign in his house, "Don't Smoke—Remember the Iroquois Fire," and the wag who wrote under this the added warning: "Don't Spit—Remember the Johnstown Flood." A half-brother of this yarn, of somewhat newer vintage, however, comes to me from a regular army post.

A newly enlisted private, still unskilled in military etiquette, flung a lighted cigarette end on the parade ground. The first sergeant of his company saw the crime committed. He made the offender pick up the smouldering butt and then stand at attention while being scolded at length.

When mess called sounded, the new hand was tardy for his meal.

"What made you late?" demanded the sergeant.

"Oh," said the private, "I walked down to the river to spit."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 6.—This afternoon I trekked out to a movie studio to watch a movie villain put the well known sin in cinema. My clothes may be gaudy but at least they are my own idea. Consequently in crossing the lot it was rather embarrassing to hear a lady among a group of visitors inquire of an attendant: "What does his costume represent?"

I felt very much like one of those dignified chairmen of the board must feel when the prosecutor is reading his ootsey-tootsey letters to 12 perfect strangers.

Another extremely embarrassing moment wa mine in the breakfast room of what Michael Arlen calls an hotel. I sat opposite a crisp gentleman who had evidently gulped a sick clam the night before. He rustled his morning paper menacingly.

"Pleasant morning!" I ventured. I'm that way—always merry and bright. Ne nodded curtly. A silence and again disregarding Aunt Het's advice never to speak to strangers in a big city: "Big Blizzard back East." You can usually interest a California in an Eastern blizzard. A cold look.

Then I reached for a piece of toast and plop went the contents of the cream pitcher into his lap. He looked at me and gave one of those laughs where the face doesn't change expression. You know the sort. The villain laughs that way just before he plunges the dagger through the hero's—wait a minute. Adolph the dictionary. O, here it is in the v's—viscera.

The way I walked away from that table, looking neither to the right or left, is nobody's business.

The silver dollar is almost extinct back East. I never saw one during my time in New York. Perhaps it is because you can't wrap them around a roll of plain paper and impress head waiters. There is something substantial and beautiful about them and a cheery sound to their ring. They are not in profusion out here but now and then you receive them in change.

California offers a variety of weather. It is not at all sunshine. Tonight for instance a heavy fog came up. To watch a great city arise from a bath of fog in gleaming dog-tooth outline is an inspiring sight.

There are golden tales of writers, obscure and great, being greeted with mammoth offers to write for the movies a half hour after they reach Los Angeles. Many drift out here expecting this windfall. So far I have received one offer which was a slight insult to what I waggishly term my intelligence. The star writers of the studios are those who have been hand picked and especially trained for the intricacies of the job. Most of the untrained boys from New York who scoffed at movies but accepted their money were devastating flops.

One notices a briskness about Los Angeles newsboys. Many have a well-dressed collegiate look. They are agreeably pleasant despite the fact they seem to yell louder than any place in the world. I saw one the other evening dressed as I never saw a newsie dressed before. He wore a dinner jacket and starched shirt and collar.

Pershing Square is the Bryant Park of the city. It is a beautifully kept mid-town breathing space but many of its benches are filled with drifting malcontents that are eddied into every city. They have come here looking for work they hope they will never find and laze through the sunny days berating the government and capitalistic power. There are women real estate "cappers" who infest public parks suggesting drives to this new addition and that—not to sell, of course, but merely as good Samaritans. Outside of this there seems to be little soliciting among strangers for real estate purchases.

Automotive Progress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan 6.—The twenty-seventh annual National Automobile Show, which will be opened at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Grand Central Palace, New York City, will be bigger and better than ever, it is promised. Some fifty different types of cars bearing distinctive names will be exhibited, and included among them will be several models that will surprise the automotive world. Also there will be a section for the display of commercial motor trucks, a feature not included in the show for several years, and nineteen manufacturers have drawn space for exhibits that will demonstrate striking advances in this form of motor transportation.

On the whole, this popular show, which draws exhibitors and visitors from all parts of the United States, and from foreign countries as well, will reflect the business and progress of the year just closed, which from the manufacturers' standpoint broke all production records in the automotive industry.

A .32 caliber automatic revolver, which is believed to have caused the man's death, was found on the floor of the upstairs bedroom, near the side of the bed.

Cook's wife, it is said, had been sleeping down stairs. She was aroused at 5 o'clock this morning by a "caller" from the East Ohio plant, making his rounds to arouse early workmen. Both went upstairs and found Cook's body lying across the bed.

Mrs. Cook asserts she had heard no revolver report during the night.

Cook's face was marked by powder burns, indicating that the weapon had been discharged at close range.

Cook had been a resident of Irondale for 10 years. He had not been in ill health and had been employed steadily at the sewer pipe plant. As a result authorities are mystified as to the motive.

Coroner A. L. Bell, of Jefferson county has been asked to investigate the case.

The body was removed to the D. N. M[illegible] an funeral home in Wellsville, for preparation for burial.

STREET REPAIR FUNDS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Balance of $7,853.67 "Starter" for 1927.

AUTO, GAS MONEY

Total of $6,742.81 Spent Last Year on Street Work.

Wellsville's auto license and gasoline tax funds, used exclusively for the repair of city streets, starts off the year with a gain of approximately $3,800 over the balance at the beginning of 1926, according to figures in the office of City Auditor Fred Eckfeld.

When the books were closed on business for 1926, the combined funds had a balance of $7,853.67, or a trifle more than was spent from both funds last year in street repair jobs.

The city received $5,253.05 from automobile licenses in 1926. Of this amount $3,732.24 was spent on repair work, leaving a balance of $1,520.81.

From the gasoline tax the city received $5,322 and spent $3,010.57 during the year, leaving a balance in this fund of $2,311.43.

The balance remaining from the two funds, consequently, is $3,832.24, which, combined with the balance from previous years with which the city started in 1926, $4,021.43, gives a total of $7,853.67 as a "starter" for 1927 repair projects.

ZELLERS' TRIAL FOR CONTEMPT IS CONTINUED

LAW SUIT ECHO

Alleged Dry Leader Sought to Intimidate Juror.

DAYTON, O., Jan. 6.—Trial of C. D. Zellers, formerly of East Liverpool, accused of contempt of court, as the result of a law suit against J. E. Watts, state dry officer, for $25,000, has been continued to January 31, by Judge Alfred McCray.

Zellers, who is the head of the Dayton branch of the Anti-Saloon league, is said to have instigated a raid at the home of V. R. Roehm, a juror hearing the case against Watts, for the purpose of intimidating him. The jury failed to reach a verdict after the raid on the Roehm home. Watts was sued by Laura Robinson, negress who alleged that she received injuries at the hands of Watts during a raid which resulted in the death of her unborn babe, and caused a serious operation.

She didn't know what was wrong!

No one had ever told her the reason people avoided her was simply her catarrhal breath. People don't speak of that. They just keep away.

Yet, if she had only known Hall's Catarrh Medicine she might have been saved years of loneliness. For Hall's brings relief—not only from the unpleasant effects of catarrh, but from catarrhal headaches—the throbbing, stuffed-up nasal and throat passages—catarrhal deafness.

FLORIDA STORM IS BLAMED FOR BRUTAL MURDER

Bitter Quarrel Over Money Lost Preceded Woman's Death.

SLAYER IN JAIL

Motive is Sought for Slaying at Hempstead, N. Y.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Harold F. Webster, confessed slayer of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Gallaway, committed the crime following a bitter quarrel over money lost in a Florida land deal, according to a theory advanced today by detectives who are seeking to establish a motive for the slaying.

Webster, a former real estate salesman in Miami, Fla., is said to have lost $5,000 of his own money and $1,000 of Mrs. Gallaway's in the deal, which collapsed because of the hurricane last fall. Detectives believe that she was dunning him for the money on Monday when he flew into a rage and beat her to death with an iron bar in the home of Mrs. Dell C. Bassett, her daughter.

Today Webster was in jail at Mineola, near here. He is being held for grand jury action tomorrow. A speedy indictment for first degree murder is expected.

Webster will plead self-defense. He insists his mother-in-law struck him and threatened to shoot him. His jaw is swollen and there are scratches on his hands.

His mother is standing by him, but his wife informed him that she "never wanted to see him again." Mrs. Webster is prostrated over her mother's tragic death.

GUARDS FIND NOOSE IN CELL OF M'DERMOTT

PAT DENIES IT

Prisoner Says he Used Blanket to Get Exercise.

CANTON, O., Jan. 6.—Whether Patrick Eugene McDermott, convicted "key man" in the Mellett murder case contemplated suicide, or whether he was putting up a "bluff" is something which Supt. John Boyer, of the Stark county workhouse, is trying to determine today.

Guards at the workhouse went through McDermott's cell while he was in the "bull pen" late yesterday afternoon and found a noose which McDermott had fashioned out of one of his blankets.

Boyer questioned McDermott last night, and the convicted man said that he had no thought of committing suicide.

"I just made that 'ging' out of the blanket to hang on the bars of the door so that I could get a little more exercise," is the explanation which he made to Boyer.

McDermott claimed that his long imprisonment at the workhouse and the limited opportunity for exercise had made him feel "stale" and he had fashioned a ring or noose out of the blanket to enable him to get a little additional exercise to keep him in fit physical shape.

"I don't believe that Pat really thought of taking his own life," said Boyer this morning. "Whether he did really want to use that thing to help him get a little exercise or whether he was trying to buff us into believing that he wanted to end his life, is something I have not yet fully determined."

"However, we shall keep a close watch on him in the future. He is so closely guarded now that, even if he did want to commit suicide, the opportunities are so limited that he would not be able to accomplish any such end, especially if he chose hanging himself as the route to liberty."

Alleged Dry Leader Sought to Intimidate Juror.

DAYTON, O., Jan. 6.—Trial of C. D. Zellers, formerly of East Liverpool, accused of contempt of court, as the result of a law suit against J. E. Watts, state dry officer, for $25,000, has been continued to January 31, by Judge Alfred McCray.

Zellers, who is the head of the Dayton branch of the Anti-Saloon league, is said to have instigated a raid at the home of V. R. Roehm, a juror hearing the case against Watts, for the purpose of intimidating him. The jury failed to reach a verdict after the raid on the Roehm home. Watts was sued by Laura Robinson, negress who alleged that she received injuries at the hands of Watts during a raid which resulted in the death of her unborn babe, and caused a serious operation.

She didn't know what was wrong!

No one had ever told her the reason people avoided her was simply her catarrhal breath. People don't speak of that. They just keep away.

Yet, if she had only known Hall's Catarrh Medicine she might have been saved years of loneliness. For Hall's brings relief—not only from the unpleasant effects of catarrh, but from catarrhal headaches—the throbbing, stuffed-up nasal and throat passages—catarrhal deafness.

If you are a sufferer, get Hall's Catarrh Medicine today. Then note the improvement. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

FLORIDA STORM IS BLAMED FOR BRUTAL MURDER

Motive is Sought for Slaying at Hempstead, N. Y.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Harold F. Webster, confessed slayer of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Gallaway, committed the crime following a bitter quarrel over money lost in a Florida land deal, according to a theory advanced today by detectives who are seeking to establish a motive for the slaying.

Webster, a former real estate salesman in Miami, Fla., is said to have lost $5,000 of his own money and $1,000 of Mrs. Gallaway's in the deal, which collapsed because of the hurricane last fall. Detectives believe that she was dunning him for the money on Monday when he flew into a rage and beat her to death with an iron bar in the home of Mrs. Dell C. Bassett, her daughter.

Today Webster was in jail at Mineola, near here. He is being held for grand jury action tomorrow. A speedy indictment for first degree murder is expected.

Webster will plead self-defense. He insists his mother-in-law struck him and threatened to shoot him. His jaw is swollen and there are scratches on his hands.

His mother is standing by him, but his wife informed him that she "never wanted to see him again." Mrs. Webster is prostrated over her mother's tragic death.

GUARDS FIND NOOSE IN CELL OF M'DERMOTT

PAT DENIES IT

Prisoner Says he Used Blanket to Get Exercise.

CANTON, O., Jan. 6.—Whether Patrick Eugene McDermott, convicted "key man" in the Mellett murder case contemplated suicide, or whether he was putting up a "bluff" is something which Supt. John Boyer, of the Stark county workhouse, is trying to determine today.

Guards at the workhouse went through McDermott's cell while he was in the "bull pen" late yesterday afternoon and found a noose which McDermott had fashioned out of one of his blankets.

Boyer questioned McDermott last night, and the convicted man said that he had no thought of committing suicide.

"I just made that 'ging' out of the blanket to hang on the bars of the door so that I could get a little more exercise," is the explanation which he made to Boyer.

McDermott claimed that his long imprisonment at the workhouse and the limited opportunity for exercise had made him feel "stale" and he had fashioned a ring or noose out of the blanket to enable him to get a little additional exercise to keep him in fit physical shape.

"I don't believe that Pat really thought of taking his own life," said Boyer this morning. "Whether he did really want to use that thing to help him get a little exercise or whether he was trying to buff us into believing that he wanted to end his life, is something I have not yet fully determined."

"However, we shall keep a close watch on him in the future. He is so closely guarded now that, even if he did want to commit suicide, the opportunities are so limited that he would not be able to accomplish any such end, especially if he chose hanging himself as the route to liberty."

NINE ARE HELD IN DEATH PLOTS

State Police Make Sensational Raids in Follansbee.

Nine men were arrested in a series of raids last midnight at Follansbee by state and Brooke county officials who charge the prisoners with membership in an alleged society believed responsible for several murders in the tri-state district, including the recent slaying of Dr. Dergo Delfino, who was found dead in his automobile near the tin mill town.

Besides a dozen or more major crimes this society is credited with the driving out of the county of numerous men through intimidation. Various hold-ups reported to the police and numerous others which were never officially reported to the officials were committed by this society, according to Brooke county officials.

Officials Wednesday night, for reasons they declared sufficient, declined to make public the names of the prisoners. They were lodged in the Brooke county jail at Wellsburg.

The Follansbee raid was the result of a story told Prosecuting Attorney Wilkins by a "squealer" in the blackhand organization. Wilkins spent the entire day behind closed doors with this man and the information was given the official with the promise that his name would never be mentioned in connection with the case—knowing full well the fate that would be his should it become known.

Two of the "higher-ups" escaped the dragnet thrown out by the raiding squads.

This society, according to Brooke county officials, is linked with the Steubenville underworld, which is notorious for its murders, robberies and other crimes. It is also connected with a similar organization at Avella, Pa.

The raids were the most severe blow given the "blackhand" organization in the tri-state district in many years. The raids were practically confined to the Italian colony of Follansbee.

DID CUSTER KILL HIMSELF?

Western Star, Coming to American, Tells of Massacre.

Did General Custer commit suicide at the Battle of the Little Big Horn? "The question may never be answered," says Col. Tim McCoy, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer western star of "War Paint," to be shown today, Friday and Saturday at the American theatre, "but many Indians and a few whites have concluded that he did die by his own hand rather than to fall into the clutches of the Sioux and Cheyennes."

McCoy, said to be the greatest living authority on the North American Indian, has made continuous inquiries for years regarding the massacre and assisted other army officers in their investigation of the massacre.

"It is a fact," says McCoy, "that neither Captain Keogh nor Custer were scalped by the Indian victors. The other one hundred and seventy-two men were scalped. This has given rise to the belief by some that both Custer and Keogh may have died by their own hands, it being a well known fact that Indians will not scalp a suicide.

"I have heard it said that Custer was not scalped because of the great reverence in which he was held by the red men. This I hardly believe to be true since the scalp of a great white soldier would have been envied by the majority of warriors. Yet there may have been some reason why their bodies were not mutilated. Possibly they may have been overlooked."

McCoy says that less than a dozen Indians were killed in the battle. This small loss he believes to be due to the fact that many of the soldiers, in their hurry to fire jammed the breechlocks of their rifles, thus rendering them useless. The Indians were armed with more powerful and more improved weapons and the whites were at a further disadvantage of shooting down hill at a moving target. This tends to make the marksman overshoot his target.

DONAHEY URGES FRANCHISE AND EXCISE TAX BOOST

Sends Initial Message to Present Ohio Legislature.

REVENUE SYSTEM

Outlines Views Concerning Public Utilities Rates.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Enactment of legislation providing for increases in franchise and excise taxes and for placing an excise tax on motor transportation companies operating as public utilities in Ohio is urged by Governor Vic Donahey in his initial message to the present Ohio legislature. The message is on file today with the senate and house clerks.

The governor recommends these revenue increases to be provided for in order to insure "a more fair and equitable distribution of the tax burden" in the Buckeye state.

The governor's message, the first of a series which he proposes to submit to the legislature within the next few weeks, deals with his views concerning contemplated legislation providing for "the proper regulation of public utilities rates and service" and for solution of "the problem of readjusting our system of revenues and expenditures on a fair and adequate basis."

Places Blame for Deficit.

Donahey charged legislators who served during recent sessions with being responsible for the deficit in the state treasury and asserted that it is the legislature's "task to correct the error."

"The fullest exchanges of advice and counsel" between the governor and legislators, "in the hope that our work may be founded on vision, patriotism and constructive statesmanship," was endorsed by the governor.

The senate was requested by Donahey to take prompt action, "either affirmatively or negatively," relative to his appointments of three members of the state utilities commission whose names will be sent to the senate for confirmation. The governor announced that, after consultation with the new commission, he proposes to submit concrete recommendations to the legislature dealing with "needed statutory changes in methods of operation and procedure of the public utilities commission."

Takes Assembly To Task.

The governor stated that State Auditor Joseph Tracy and Director of Finance W. E. Baker had informed him that, unless receipts are increased in the meantime, there will be a deficit of approximately $4,000,000 in the state's general revenue fund at the end of the current fiscal biennium, June 30, next.

"Thereafter, the normal expenditures of the state government will exceed receipts of the state treasury, under existing revenue laws, about $8,000,000 annually," Donahey told the legislators.

Despite the repeal of direct state tax levies by the Ohio legislature in 1923, thereby reducing the state's revenues more than $10,000,000 a year, the governor declared, "the treasury would not have been embarrassed if the legislature had not subsequently made appropriations for expeditures in excess of the anticipated income of the treasury, including the appropriation of some $6,500,000 over my veto, and then reduced corporation franchise taxes several million dollars a year."

Suggests Two Remedies.

Asserting that the last legislature "appropriated funds far in excess of the anticipated receipts of the treasury," the governor declared that "the unlawfully created deficit we are facing must be overcome by one of two available methods:

"First—Appropriations on your part within the expected income of the treasury under the present forms and rates of indirect taxes, and the elimination, or curtailment, of many state activities; or

"Second—The raising of additional revenues to meet the present and ever-growing activities of the state government."

The governor urged the legislators not to "take a backward step in the important services for which most of the state funds are expended."

He submitted a table of proposed increases in excise and franchise taxes estimated to raise $10,786,528 additional revenue for the state annually.

Of this amount, $9,000,000 was the increase anticipated each year if the legislature will raise the domestic corporation fee on outstanding capital, as provided for in the Dempsey act.

Governor Donahey announced his intention of transmitting to the legislature soon the executive budget proposing expenditures totaling approximately $55,000,000 for state governmental activities during the 18 months ending Dec. 31, 1928, the budget being based on the assumption that the legislators will provide for additional indirect taxes as suggested by the governor.

"If you do not increase revenues, the budget must be cut about 20 per cent in order to keep appropriations within anticipated revenues,' said the governor. "In any event, I trust you will not make appropriations in excess of the anticipated receipts of the treasury as did the 86th general assembly," the governor's message reads.

The governor's budget total of $54,486,550, represents a reduction by Finance Director Baker and State Budget Commissioner Merlin Brenneman of $16,913,932 from requests for legislative appropriations, aggregating $71,400,491, submitted by the heads of the various state departments and institutions.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6. — Industrial stocks moved through an irregular course in the early trading today. Selling orders for the industrial shares and high priced specialties flooded the market in the first period, resulting in moderate losses, while short covering in Baldwin and other speculative leaders produced a firm tone in some sections of the list.

The shadow of the Mexican disorders hung over a portion of the oil and copper shares. Pan-American Petroleum B reached a new low on the movement, and American Smelting was freely offered by the professionals who have been clinging tenaciously to the short side of the market. The motor shares held their ground in the face of fairly heavy profit taking and short selling, though Mack Trucks declined to a new low on the move.

The bulls received a concession in the marking down of call loan rates to 4¾ per cent. Funds were available in the outside market as low as 4 per cent, according to market reports. The railroad traffic figures were favorable, showing a gain of 71,539 car loadings in the week of December 25, as compared with the same month last year. Buying in Baldwin Locomotive on a new 4-point rise was attributed to Chicago speculators.

Recoveries were under way in most sections of the market in the second hour.

WOMAN IS SHOT TO DEATH IN OHIOAN'S AUTO

Hillsboro Contractor Alleges Attack by Bandits.

PROBE UNDER WAY

Coroner Says Bullet Was Fired at Close Range.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 6.—Circumstances surrounding the murder last night of Mrs. Sherley Glardon, 42, while she was riding in an automobile with Peter Brown, Hillsboro, O., contractor, were to be closely investigated by detectives here today.

Brown, being held pending further inquiry into the killing, declared to police that three bandits in another automobile stopped them near Hartwell, suburb, and that Mrs. Glardon was killed by one of a fusillade of bullets fired by the bandits when he attempted to drive away.

Coroner S. C. Swing announced, however, that the bullet which pierced the back of the woman's head, was fired at close range, and that powder burns in the wound, and the burned collar of her coat, convinced him that the fatal shot could not have been fired through the rear of the fleeing car.

Brown had stated that the bullet came through the rear of his automobile as he was "stepping on the gas" to get away from the bandit trio. He showed police a bullet hole in the back of the car to substantiate his story.

According to John Glardon, the murdered woman's husband, the two had separated about 10 days ago because of Brown's alleged attention to Mrs. Glardon.

Brown was said to have stated that Mrs. Glardon's last words were "don't you dare touch me" to one of the bandits, who jumped on the running board of his machine and tried to prevent the escape.

Brown declared that the man struck him on the head with a revolver and exhibited a lacerated scalp in furtherance of that portion of his story.

The contractor said that as the man fell from the running board, the bandits opened fire and that at least three shots were fired.

The scene of the murder was some distance from Newtown, another suburb, where Tuesday night Miss Ethel Kendall, pretty 23-year-old Latonia, girl, was forcibly taken from the machine of her escort and held in captivity for nearly two hours before she was freed by three men.

Stage Last Act Of Bitter Quarrel Over Bigger Navy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—With party lines smashed and Republican leaders at odds with President Coolidge, the house today prepared to stage the last act of its present melo-dramatic quarrel over demands for a bigger American navy.

An appropriation for preliminary work on three battle cruisers' a $7,000,000 boost in the air corps allowance and $100,000 to start construction of a giant dirigible comprised the program of the "big navy" forces.

Two Cross-state Highways Will be Known as 17 and 18

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Highway Director George Schlessinger today announced the official designation of the two cross-state highways, known as state routes 17 and 18. Number 17, also, is known as the Benjamin Franklin highway.

Police Say Suicide Pact Caused Two Deaths in Akron

AKRON, O., Jan. 6.—A suicide pact was responsible for the death of Fred Hess, a train dispatcher, and his wife, Gladys, police declared here today when it was learned that the husband had made a dying statement that Mrs. Hess had shot him and then killed herself.

Hess staggered to the street Christmas eve with a bullet in his head. His wife's body was found in their quarters. Beside it lay a note saying:

"Bury us together."

The dispatcher remained unconscious until after an operation yesterday to remove the bullet. He rallied later and declared:

"My wife shot me," then died.

$10,000 BLAZE IN WHEELING

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 6.—Fire of undetermined origin today destroyed the copper shop of the H. Betti's plant here. Loss is estimated at $10,000.

Senate Protests

Argonne, and a mine sweeper, the Quail, in Nicaraguan waters, with a total fighting complement of some 3,000 men, marines nad bluejackets.

This force, the state department believes, will be sufficient to account not only for the safety of American and foreign lives and property but also to prevent the Sacasa Liberals from seizing Managua, the capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Abandonment by the state department of the evacation of American women and last pretense of neutrality in the Nicaraguan civil war—reflected by the lifting of the embargo on arms to the hard-pressed Diaz forces, and the landing of additional American marines to frustrate the advances of the Liberal revolutionists under Sacasa—aroused a veritable storm of opposition in the senate today.

"This is intervention," said Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. "Under the circumstances and conditions existing in Nicaragua it is nothing else."

"It is an act of war," declared Senator Norris (R.) of Nebraska, while Senator Wheeler (D.) of Montana, asserted that "the mask is now off the state department's policy." Wheeler has a resolution pending demanding the immediate recall of the marines from Nicaragua.

Move Against Sacasa.

The state department, is was learned, has given Admiral Latimer, the American commander, blanket authority to close the ports at Puerto Cabezas, Sacasa's capital, and Rio Grande bar, on the east coast, to the storing or movement of Liberal army supplies. With Bluefields also under American naval control as a neutral zone, the entire east coast is about bottled up so far as Sacasa is concerned.

This bottling up process of the ports will effectually prevent Sacasa receiving any arms and ammunition from Mexican sources, it is believed, while the lifting of the embargo will give Diaz access to unlimited American supplies.

Unless Sacasa is able to break the bottle somewhere, it probably means his revolution against the American-backed Diaz will die of strangulation.

American naval forces now occupy his capital, Puerto Cabezas, and have declared it a neutral zone. They similarly occupy Managua, the Diaz capital, more marines having been landed yesterday.

Kellogg Faces Rough Time.

Secretary of State Kellogg appeared to be in for a rough time when he appears before the senate foreign relations committee to explain his policy. There were even intimations today that open demands for his resignation will be made.

Democrats Support Protest.

There appeared considerable Democratic backing of Senator Wheeler's position. If the Democrats back his resolution for withdrawal of the marines solidly enough it might pass, for the insurgents are with them.

"The embargo should be restored," said Senator Copeland (D) of New York. "The United States should not be put in the position of encouraging war in a friendly state."

"It is an act of war," said Senator Norris, the insurgents leader referring to the lifting of the embargo.

Wheeler announced he would introduce a new resolution today, demanding a senate investigation into all American concessions and bankers' loans in Central and South America.

Meanwhile, the state department preserved silence.

On Friday and Saturday, Lanning will offer his farewell play, "No Other Girl."

Senate Filibuster Held as Club Over Maternity Measure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A well organized filibuster was held as a club over the Sheppard-Townsend maternity bill today as its proponents sought to secure its enactment by the senate.

Led by Senator James A. Reed (D) of Missouri, foes of the bill organized into a bloc for the purpose of bringing the senate's legislative machine to a standstill until the measure is shelved. A similar filibuster blocked the bill's enactment five years ago and it languished in a pigeon-hole ever since. Reed was aided in plotting the filibuster by Senators Phipps (R) of Colorado, and Bingham (R) of Connecticut.

Senate Committee To Probe Southern Political Charges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Investigations into the sale of patronage in the south and the alleged disfranchisement of negroes were ordered today by the senate judiciary sub-committee.

While recommending both investigations, the committee disagreed upon whether to conduct them singly or together. This question, it was indicated, will be left for the full committee to decide.

LAUDS SOAP, WATER, AS BEAUTY AIDS

Plenty of soap and water—just that and nothing more—is the advice Greta Garbo, beautiful screen star, gives to those who would be fair. "In my country, Sweden," she says, "we do not use cold cream so much as you in America. It sounds strange to American ears, I know, but a good soap, plenty of water, and a scrubbing brush are the best cosmetics."

Senator Copeland

Mayor of Ann Arbor.

He has served as mayor, president of the board of education and member of the city park board of Ann Arbor and was a member of the Michigan tuberculosis board of trustees.

In 1903 he became the president of the National Medical association and was called to New York City where he was for ten years the dean of the New York Homeopathic Medical college and head of the Flower hospital.

Finally he was appointed by the then Mayor Hylan as commissioner of health and president of the city's board of health. Previously he had served on the ambulance board by appointment of the late Mayor Gaynor. His work in these lines attracted such attention that he was selected by the Democrats to contest for a United States senate seat with former Senator William M. Calder whom he defeated by a plurality of 281,246 votes. He has served almost four years of his term as senator.

Member of Methodist Church.

In the senate he is a member of the committees of commerce, District of Columbia, education and labor, immigration and naval affairs. At Washington he lives in the Wardman Park hotel with Mrs. Copeland, while his only son, R. S. Copeland Jr., is a student at Phillips Exeter academy in New England. The three recently returned from a visit to their summer home at Sufferin, N. Y.

During his college days Senator Copeland became a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon. Later he took post graduate courses in England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Belgium.

From his early manhood Senator Copeland has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. For eight years from 1900 to 1908 he was treasurer of the National Board of Control of the Epworth League. In 1896 he was a delegate to the World's Home congress at London and four years later in the same city he was a representative to the Methodist Ecumenical congress.

He was secretary of the Council of National Defense in 1917. He also organized Hospital Unit N. when the United States entered the World war.

Newspaper Contributor.

For several years Senator Copeland has contributed daily in newspapers throughout the country articles on health. As a result he has qualified as a member of the Newspaper Club of New York, the Hundred Year Club of Chicago and National Press Club of Washington.

As an author he has to his credit a text book, "Refraction," prepared from 1899 to 1905, and "The Scientific Reasonableness of Homeopathy," written in 1909.

He is also a member of the New York Athletic Club, the National Democratic Club, the Transportation Club, the Sons of American Revolution, Knights Templar, Mystic Shrine, Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, honorary member of the Stationary Engineers' local, Knights of the Maccabees Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the American Public Health association, University of Michigan Club and the Michigan Society of New York. Of several of these he has been president and vice-president.

Because of his close relationship to the political activities of Governor Al Smith, probable candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination next year, his coming to East Liverpool at this time will be of unusual interest. In political circles it is hinted that Copeland may be a compromise candidate for first or second place on the ticket.

New school buildings to be erected by the government of Kenya Colony, South Africa, will have a total cost of $1,500,000.

COBB, SPEAKER ASK LANDIS TO CLEAR NAMES

Their Attorneys Will go to Chicago on Saturday.

LEONARD CHARGES

Hint Legal Action in Event Request is Refused.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, through their attorneys, will ask Judge Landis Saturday to clear their names of the smirch caused when Hubert "Dutch" Leonard recently charged that the two former baseball pilots had participated in a crooked game.

William H. Boyd, counsel for Speaker, declared today that he and James O. Murfin, of Detroit, representing Cobb, had an appointment to meet the commissioner in Chicago at which time the entire affair would be "threshed out and organized baseball given a chance to absolve the two men without resorting to legal action."

Boyd said that this did not mean that an ultimatum would be served on Landis and yet he implied that the possibility of legal action will remain unless Speaker and Cobb are given a clean bill.

Speaker has not yet decided whether hee will appear at the conference. Cobb is in Chicago.

Light Vote in Morgantown Election.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 6.—Apathy on the part of the voters marked the election for city councilmen and school commissioners here today. Poll attendants remarked upon the light vote cast, despite the fact that party issues were sharply drawn.

FIFTH ARREST MADE IN RUM CLEAN-UP HERE

Lonza Armond, or Lorenza Harmon, Goes to Jail.

SLEUTH IN CASE

Roy Green Released; Two Others are Held.

Lonza Armond, whose correct name municipal court officials claim is Lorenza Harmon, is being held in the city jail today upon an affidavit signed by Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, charging him with the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors.

Harmon, for whom police have been searching for about five days, was arrested on Sixth street last night by Patrolman William Lister. He entered a plea of not guilty when he faced Judge Hanley this morning and was committed to jail pending a hearing. He is represented by Attorney G. Jay Clark.

Harmon was the last of the five men against whom liquor violation charges were preferred by police on New Year's Day, the other four having been taken into custody early in the week. He is charged with having sold intoxicating liquor to "one Mike Davis" on December 14, last.

Bradley Burns, who is also charged with a sale, will face Judge Hanley tomorrow morning. He has been in jail since his arrest last Saturday afternoon, having entered a plea of not guilty to the charge last Monday.

Roy Green, who was charged with possession of intoxicants, and who was fined $100 and costs, was at liberty today after he had paid a part of his fine and arranged to liquidate the balance.

Relatives of Harry Daher, who is under a $300 fine for possessing liquor, arrived here from Pennsylvania today to arrange for his release. Judge Hanley said yesterday that Daher would be committed to the Canton workhouse unless his fine was paid. His father and friends were to confer with Hanley this afternoon in an effort to obtain his release.

Hankow Situation Reported Critical; Women Leave City

SHANGHAI, Jan. 6.—A most critical situation prevailed at Hankow today where Chinese mobs swarmed over the British concession, despite repeated official assurances by the Cantonese authorities of protection for foreign lives and property.

It was reported that heavy street fighting has broken out there.

The British consul general has ordered the evacuation of all British women and children, and three boatloads of these refugees were hurrying to Shanghai today. Although the American consul has not yet ordered the evacuation of American women and children, many of them have left the British concession and are also enroute to Shanghai.

The American legation at Peking was reported as not unduly alarmed for the safety of Americans in Hankow inasmuch as Admiral Hough of the American Asiatic fleet is at the scene with five American warships for the protection of American interests. Other vessels were enroute to Hankow today.

THE BUCKEYE NEWS

No. 1. January 6, 1927. Vol. 1

Mr. Krug over at the Review-Tribune office, says he knows how to run a newspaper, and we're no exception to that rule.

But we can't afford a newspaper of our own. Besides, we're too busy with the Lumber business.

So we have arranged for this little corner in the Review-Tribune and we're going to devote it to the news of our business.

We may not talk about Lumber all the time. Maybe some of you East Liverpool folks may get your names into our "newspaper" occasionally.

Also, we may decide to write poetry or high brow editorials.

But we'll at least try to be interesting and we hope you'll watch for The Buckeye News each week.

There are lots of things around our place of business that we'd like to tell you about from time to time. New merchandise arriving. New ideas. Comments from customers. Things that we believe would interest you a lot more than if we tried to tell you all the time about what a wonderful establishment we have here.

In other words, we want to make this space of some service to you, and we wish you'd advise us from week to week—criticise or commend as you think we deserve. We'll need your help and "moral support."

And while we're getting The Buckeye News ready each week, just remember that we're also going to give you the best Lumber service we know how to deliver.

That's the big aim of this institution, always.

Outlines Views Concerning Public Utilities Rates.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Enactment of legislation providing for increases in franchise and excise taxes and for placing an excise tax on motor transportation companies operating as public utilities in Ohio is urged by Governor Vic Donahey in his initial message to the present Ohio legislature. The message is on file today with the senate and house clerks.

The governor recommends these revenue increases to be provided for in order to ingure "a more fair and equitable distribution of the tax burden" in the Buckeye state.

The governor's message, the first of a series which he proposes to submit to the legislature within the next few weeks, deals with his views concerning contemplated legislation providing for "the proper regulation of public utilities rates and service" and for solution of "the problem of readjusting our system of revenues and expenditures on a fair and adequate basis."

Places Blame for Deficit.

Donahey charged legislators who served during recent sessions with being responsible for the deficit in the state treasury and asserted that it is the legislature's "task to correct the error."

"The fullest exchanges of advice and counsel" between the governor and legislators, "in the hope that our work may be founded on vision, patriotism and constructive statesmanship," was endorsed by the governor.

The senate was requested by Donahey to take prompt action, "either affirmatively or negatively," relative to his appointments of three members of the state utilities commission whose names will be sent to the senate for confirmation. The governor announced that, after consultation with the new commission, he proposes to submit concrete recommendations to the legislature dealing with "needed statutory changes in methods of operation and procedure of the public utilities commission."

Takes Assembly To Task.

The governor stated that State Auditor Joseph Tracy and Director of Finance W. E. Baker had informed him that, unless receipts are increased in the meantime, there will be a deficit of approximately $4,000,000 in the state's general revenue fund at the end of the current fiscal biennium, June 30, next.

"Thereafter, the normal expenditures of the state government will exceed receipts of the state treasury, under existing revenue laws, about $8,000,000 annually," Donahey told the legislators.

Despite the repeal of direct state tax levies by the Ohio legislature in 1923, thereby reducing the state's revenues more than $10,000,000 a year, the governor declared, "the treasury would not have been embarrassed if the legislature had not subsequently made appropriations for expeditures in excess of the anticipated income of the treasury, including the appropriation of some $6,500,000 over my veto, and then reduced corporation franchise taxes several million dollars a year."

Suggests Two Remedies.

Asserting that the last legislature "appropriated funds far in excess of the anticipated receipts of the treasury," the governor declared that "the unlawfully created deficit we are facing must be overcome by one of two available methods:

"First—Appropriations on your part within the expected income of the treasury under the present forms and rates of indirect taxes, and the elimination, or curtailment, of many state activities; or

"Second—The raising of additional revenues to meet the present and ever-growing activities of the state government."

The governor urged the legislators not to "take a backward step in the important services for which most of the state funds are expended."

He submitted a table of proposed increases in excise and franchise taxes estimated to raise $10,786,528 additional revenue for the state annually.

Of this amount, $9,000,000 was the increase anticipated each year if the legislature will raise the domestic corporation fee on outstanding capital, as provided for in the Dempsey act.

Governor Donahey announced his intention of transmitting to the legislature soon the executive budget proposing expenditures totaling approximately $55,000,000 for state governmental activities during the 18 months ending Dec. 31, 1928, the budget being based on the assumption that the legislators will provide for additional indirect taxes as suggested by the governor.

"If you do not increase revenues, the budget must be cut about 20 per cent in order to keep appropriations within anticipated revenues,' said the governor. "In any event, I trust you will not make appropriations in excess of the anticipated receipts of the treasury as did the 86th general assembly," the governor's message reads.

The governor's budget total of $54,486,550, represents a reduction by Finance Director Baker and State Budget Commissioner Merlin Brenneman of $16,913,932 from requests for legisqlative appropriations, aggregating $71,400,491, submitted by the heads of the various state departments and institutions.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6. — Industrial stocks moved through an irregular course in the early trading today. Selling orders for the industrial shares and high priced specialties flooded the market in the first period, resulting in moderate losses, while short covering in Baldwin and other speculative leaders produced a firm tone in some sections of the list.

The shadow of the Mexican disorders hung over a portion of the oil and copper shares. Pan-American Petroleum B reached a new low on the movement, and American Smelting was freely offered by the professionals who have been clinging tenaciously to the short side of the market. The motor shares held their ground in the face of fairly heavy profit taking and short selling, though Mack Trucks declined to a new low on the move.

The bulls received a concession in the marking down of call loan rates to 4¾ per cent. Funds were available in the outside market as low as 4 per cent, according to market reports. The railroad traffic figures were favorable, showing a gain of 71,539 car loadings in the week of December 25, as compared with the same month last year. Buying in Baldwin Locomotive on a new 4-point rise was attributed to Chicago speculators.

Recoveries were under way in most sections of the market in the second hour.

WOMAN IS SHOT TO DEATH IN OHIOAN'S AUTO

Hillsboro Contractor Alleges Attack by Bandits.

Coroner Says Bullet Was Fired at Close Range.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 6.—Circumstances surrounding the murder last night of Mrs. Sherley Glardon, 42, while she was riding in an automobile with Peter Brown, Hillsboro, O., contractor, were to be closely investigated by detectives here today.

Brown, being held pending further inquiry into the killing, declared to police that three bandits in another automobile stopped them near Hartwell, suburb, and that Mrs. Glardon was killed by one of a fusillade of bullets fired by the bandits when he attempted to drive away.

Coroner S. C. Swing announced, however, that the bullet which pierced the back of the woman's head, was fired at close range, and that powder burns in the wound, and the burned collar of her coat, convinced him that the fatal shot could not have been fired through the rear of the fleeing car.

Brown had stated that the bullet came through the rear of his automobile as he was "stepping on the gas" to get away from the bandit trio. He showed police a bullet hole in the back of the car to substantiate his story.

According to John Glardon, the murdered woman's husband, the two had separated about 10 days ago because of Brown's alleged attention to Mrs. Glardon.

Brown was said to have stated that Mrs. Glardon's last words were "don't you dare touch me" to one of the bandits, who jumped on the running board of his machine and tried to prevent the escape.

Brown declared that the man struck him on the head with a revolver and exhibited a lacerated scalp in furtherance of that portion of his story.

The contractor said that as the man fell from the running board, the bandits opened fire and that at least three shots were fired.

The scene of the murder was some distance from Newtown, another suburb, where Tuesday night Miss Ethel Kendall, pretty 23-year-old Latonia, girl, was forcibly taken from the machine of her escort and held in captivity for nearly two hours before she was freed by three men.

Stage Last Act Of Bitter Quarrel Over Bigger Navy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—With party lines smashed and Republican leaders at odds with President Coolidge, the house today prepared to stage the last act of its present melo-dramatic quarrel over demands for a bigger American navy.

An appropriation for preliminary work on three battle cruisers' a $7,000,000 boost in the air corps allowance and $400,000 to start construction of a giant dirigible comprised the program of the "big navy" forces.

Two Cross-state Highways Will be Known as 17 and 18

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Highway Director George Schlessinger today announced the official designation of the two cross-state highways, known as state routes 17 and 18. Number 17, also, is known as the Benjamin Franklin highway.

Police Say Suicide Pact Caused Two Deaths in Akron

AKRON, O., Jan. 6.—A suicide pact was responsible for the death of Fred Hess, a train dispatcher, and his wife, Gladys, police declared here today when it was learned that the husband had made a dying statement that Mrs. Hess had shot him and then killed herself.

Hess staggered to the street Christmas eve with a bullet in his head. His wife's body was found in their quarters. Beside it lay a note saying: "Bury us together."

The dispatcher remained unconscious until after an operation yesterday to remove the bullet. He rallied later and declared:

"My wife shot me," then died.

Senate Protests

Argonne, and a mine sweeper, the Quail, in Nicaraguan waters, with a total fighting complement of some 3,000 men, marines nad bluejackets.

This force, the state department believes, will be sufficient to account not only for the safety of American and foreign lives and property but also to prevent the Sacasa Liberals from seizing Managua, the capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Abandonment by the state department of the evacation of American women and last pretense of neutrality in the Nicaraguan civil war—reflected by the lifting of the embargo on arms to the hard-pressed Diaz forces, and the landing of additional American marines to frustrate the advances of the Liberal revolutionists under Sacasa—aroused a veritable storm of opposition in the senate today.

"This is intervention," said Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. "Under the circumstances and conditions existing in Nicaragua it is nothing else."

"It is an act of war," declared Senator Norris (R.) of Nebraska, while Senator Wheeler (D.) of Montana, asserted that "the mask is now off the state department's policy." Wheeler has a resolution pending demanding the immediate recall of the marines from Nicaragua.

Move Against Sacasa.

The state department, is was learned, has given Admiral Latimer, the American commander, blanket authority to close the ports at Puerto Cabezas, Sacasa's capital, and Rio Grande bar, on the east coast, to the storing or movement of Liberal army supplies. With Bluefields also under American naval control as a neutral zone, the entire east coast is about bottled up so far as Sacasa is concerned.

This bottling up process of the ports will effectually prevent Sacasa receiving any arms and ammunition from Mexican sources, it is believed, while the lifting of the embargo will give Diaz access to unlimited American supplies.

Unless Sacasa is able to break the bottle somewhere, it probably means his revolution against the American-backed Diaz will die of strangulation.

American naval forces now occupy his capital, Puerto Cabezas, and have declared it a neutral zone. They similarly occupy Managua, the Diaz capital, more marines having been landed yesterday.

Kellogg Faces Rough Time.

Secretary of State Kellogg appeared to be in for a rough time when he appears before the senate foreign relations committee to explain his policy. There were even intimations today that open demands for his resignation will be made.

Democrats Support Protest.

There appeared considerable Democratic backing of Senator Wheeler's position. If the Democrats back his resolution for withdrawal of the marines solidly enough it might pass, for the insurgents are with them.

"The embargo should be restored," said Senator Copeland (D) of New York. "The United States should not be put in the position of encouraging war in a friendly state."

"It is an act of war," said Senator Norris, the insurgent's leader referring to the lifting of the embargo.

Wheeler announced he would introduce a new resolution today, demanding a senate investigation into all American concessions and bankers' loans in Central and South America.

Meanwhile, the state department preserved silence.

Senate Filibuster Held as Club Over Maternity Measure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A well organized filibuster was held as a club over the Sheppard-Townsend maternity bill today as its proponents sought to secure its enactment by the senate.

Led by Senator James A. Reed (D) of Missouri, foes of the bill organized into a bloc for the purpose of bringing the senate's legislative machine to a standstill until the measure is shelved. A similar filibuster blocked the bill's enactment five years ago and it languished in a pigeon-hole ever since. Reed was aided in plotting the filibuster by Senators Phipps (R) of Colorado, and Bingham (R) of Connecticut.

Senate Committee To Probe Southern Political Charges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Investigations into the sale of patronage in the south and the alleged disfranchisement of negroes were ordered today by the senate judiciary sub-committee.

While recommending both investigations, the committee disagreed upon whether to conduct them singly or together. This question, it was indicated, will be left for the full committee to decide.

LAUDS SOAP, WATER, AS BEAUTY AIDS

Plenty of soap and water—just that and nothing more—is the advice Greta Garbo, beautiful screen star, gives to those who would be fair. "In my country, Sweden," she says, "we do not use cold cream so much as you in America. It sounds strange to American ears, I know, but a good soap, plenty of water, and a scrubbing brush are the best cosmetics."

Mayor of Ann Arbor.

He has served as mayor, president of the board of education and member of the city park board of Ann Arbor and was a member of the Michigan tuberculosis board of trustees.

In 1903 he became the president of the National Medical association and was called to New York City where he was for ten years the dean of the New York Homeopathic Medical college and head of the Flower hospital.

Finally he was appointed by the then Mayor Hylan as commissioner of health and president of the city's board of health. Previously he had served on the ambulance board by appointment of the late Mayor Gaynor. His work in these lines attracted such attention that he was selected by the Democrats to contest for a United States senate seat with former Senator William M. Calder whom he defeated by a plurality of 281,246 votes. He has served almost four years of his term as senator.

Member of Methodist Church.

In the senate he is a member of the committees of commerce, District of Columbia, education and labor, immigration and naval affairs. At Washington he lives in the Wardman Park hotel with Mrs. Copeland, while his only son, R. S. Copeland Jr., is a student at Phillips Exeter academy in New England. The three recently returned from a visit to their summer home at Sufferin, N. Y.

During his college days Senator Copeland became a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon. Later he took post graduate courses in England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Belgium.

From his early manhood Senator Copeland has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. For eight years from 1900 to 1908 he was treasurer of the National Board of Control of the Epworth League. In 1896 he was a delegate to the World's Home congress at London and four years later in the same city he was a representative to the Methodist Ecumenical congress.

He was secretary of the Council of National Defense in 1917. He also organized Hospital Unit N, when the United States entered the World war.

Newspaper Contributor.

For several years Senator Copeland has contributed daily in newspapers throughout the country articles on health. As a result he has qualified as a member of the Newspaper Club of New York, the Hundred Year Club of Chicago and National Press Club of Washington.

As an author he has to his credit a text book, "Refraction," prepared from 1899 to 1905, and "The Scientific Reasonableness of Homeopathy," written in 1909.

He is also a member of the New York Athletic Club, the National Democratic Club, the Transportation Club, the Sons of American Revolution, Knights Templar, Mystic Shrine, Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, honorary member of the Stationary Engineers' local, Knights of the Maccabees Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the American Public Health association, University of Michigan Club and the Michigan Society of New York. Of several of these he has been president and vice-president.

Because of his close relationship to the political activities of Governor Al Smith, probable candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination next year, his coming to East Liverpool at this time will be of unusual interest. In political circles it is hinted that Copeland may be a compromise candidate for first or second place on the ticket.

New school buildings to be erected by the government of Kenya Colony, South Africa, will have a total cost of $1,500,000.

COBB, SPEAKER ASK LANDIS TO CLEAR NAMES

Their Attorneys Will go to Chicago on Saturday.

LEONARD CHARGES

Hint Legal Action in Event Request is Refused.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, through their attorneys, will ask Judge Landis Saturday to clear their names of the smirch caused when Hubert "Dutch" Leonard recently charged that the two former baseball pilots had participated in a crooked game.

William H. Boyd, counsel for Speaker, declared today that he and James O. Murfin, of Detroit, representing Cobb, had an appointment to meet the commissioner in Chicago at which time the entire affair would be "threshed out and organized baseball given a chance to absolve the two men without resorting to legal action."

Boyd said that this did not mean that an ultimatum would be served on Landis and yet he implied that the possibility of legal action will remain unless Speaker and Cobb are given a clean bill.

Speaker has not yet decided whether hee will appear at the conference. Cobb is in Chicago.

Light Vote in Morgantown Election.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 6.—Apathy on the part of the voters marked the election for city councilmen and school commissioners here today. Poll attendants remarked upon the light vote cast, despite the fact that party issues were sharply drawn.

FIFTH ARREST MADE IN RUM CLEAN-UP HERE

Lonza Armond, or Lorenza Harmon, Goes to Jail.

SLEUTH IN CASE

Roy Green Released; Two Others are Held.

Lonza Armond, whose correct name municipal court officials claim is Lorenza Harmon, is being held in the city jail today upon an affidavit signed by Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, charging him with the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors.

Harmon, for whom police have been searching for about five days, was arrested on Sixth street last night by Patrolman William Lister. He entered a plea of not guilty when he faced Judge Hanley this morning and was committed to jail pending a hearing. He is represented by Attorney G. Jay Clark.

Harmon was the last of the five men against whom liquor violation charges were preferred by police on New Year's Day, the other four having been taken into custody early in the week. He is charged with having sold intoxicating liquor to "one Mike Davis" on December 14, last.

Bradley Burns, who is also charged with a sale, will face Judge Hanley tomorrow morning. He has been in jail since his arrest last Saturday afternoon, having entered a plea of not guilty to the charge last Monday.

Roy Green, who was charged with possession of intoxicants, and who was fined $100 and costs, was at liberty today after he had paid a part of his fine and arranged to liquidate the balance.

Relatives of Harry Daher, who is under a $300 fine for possessing liquor, arrived here from Pennsylvania today to arrange for his release. Judge Hanley said yesterday that Daher would be committed to the Canton workhouse unless his fine was paid. His father and friends were to confer with Hanley this afternoon in an effort to obtain his release.

Hankow Situation Reported Critical; Women Leave City

SHANGHAI, Jan. 6.—A most critical situation prevailed at Hankow today where Chinese mobs swarmed over the British concession, despite repeated official assurances by the Cantonese authorities of protection for foreign lives and property.

It was reported that heavy street fighting has broken out there.

The British consul general has ordered the evacuation of all British women and children, and three boatloads of these refugees were hurrying to Shanghai today. Although the American consul has not yet ordered the evacuation of American women and children, many of them have left the British concession and are also enroute to Shanghai.

The American legation at Peking was reported as not unduly alarmed for the safety of Americans in Hankow inasmuch as Admiral Hough of the American Asiatic fleet is at the scene with five American warships for the protection of American interests. Other vessels were enroute to Hankow today.

THE BUCKEYE NEWS

No. 1. January 6, 1927. Vol. 1

Mr. Krug over at the Review-Tribune office, says he knows how to run a newspaper, and we're no exception to that rule.

But we can't afford a newspaper of our own. Besides, we're too busy with the Lumber business.

So we have arranged for this little corner in the Review-Tribune and we're going to devote it to the news of our business.

We may not talk about Lumber all the time. Maybe some of you East Liverpool folks may get your names into our "newspaper" occasionally.

Also, we may decide to write poetry or high brow editorials.

But we'll at least try to be interesting and we hope you'll watch for The Buckeye News each week.

There are lots of things around our place of business that we'd like to tell you about from time to time. New merchandise arriving. New ideas. Comments from customers. Things that we believe would interest you a lot more than if we tried to tell you all the time about what a wonderful establishment we have here.

In other words, we want to make this space of some service to you ,and we wish you'd advise us from week to week—criticise or commend as you think we deserve. We'll need your help and "moral support."

And while we're getting The Buckeye News ready each week, just remember that we're also going to give you the best Lumber service we know how to deliver.

That's the big aim of this institution, always.

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

Fletcher's CASTORIA

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

FOUR MEN FLEE LONDON, O., JAIL

Make Getaway as New Sheriff Takes Over Job.

LONDON, O., Jan. 5. — Edward Blaugher, Madison county's new sheriff, today was searching the county for trace of four prisoners who escaped from the county jail. The men used an iron bar to drill a hole through the prison wall and let themselves down a 30-foot drop by use of a garden hose.

The men who escaped are: Everett Elliott, indicted for attempting to wreck a train; Garnet McIntire, charged with criminal assault; Virgil Mays, charged with criminal assault, and Logan Nichols, charged with chicken stealing.

Joe Giehl, serving a third sentence for violation of the liquor law, escaped from the city jail Dec. 22.

Two prisoners found in the jail by Sheriff Blaugher, declared they knew nothing of the delivery. One of the men, Henry Low, the sheriff reported, is too corpulent and so was prevented from crawling through the 15-inch square hole, while the other, Frank Fisher, is a cripple.

The men had been given the freedom of the cell block and were not locked in cells, the sheriff reported.

SLEEPLESS WITH PAIN OF RHEUMATISM

Now sleeps well and can work with ease

"I could not sleep or do my work, but now I sleep well, walk and do my work with ease. I used Sloan's Liniment only once and it relieved me of my pain. It is just wonderful. I shall never be without it."

This is only one letter but it is typical of thousands that the makers of Sloan's have received, testifying to the amazing relief that Sloan's gives to every kind of muscular pain.

Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up the bodily forces to get rid of the trouble that is causing the pain.

No need to rub, it's the medicine itself that does the work. Just pat it on. Instantly it sends the fresh, healing blood tingling through the sick tissues—and the pain simply has to go. So clean and easy to use, too. Get a bottle. All druggists—35 cents.

BOWDLER GOES TO JAIL CELL

Ulyatt and Lawyer Begin Moundsville Penitentiary Terms.

Refused an application for a 15-day stay of execution, Arthur E. Bowdler, former East Liverpool attorney, and Gordon D. Ulyatt, his business associate in the Real Estate Guaranty Mortgage company of Wheeling, today were in the Moundsville penitentiary where they will serve terms of five years each, imposed by the Ohio county circuit courts for violation of the West Virginia state speculative securities act.

Counsel for the two defendants who surrendered Tuesday, asked that an additional stay of execution be granted in order that the prisoners might close their business affairs. Mrs. Ulyatt appeared in court with her husband.

Prosecuting Attorney A. C. Schiffler opposed the stay of execution.

Commitment papers for the prisoners, who also were fined $5,000, were being prepared by Lionel L. Nightengale, clerk of the Ohio county circuit court.

EARL FELTON SCOUT CHIEF

Earl Felton, Lisbon, has been appointed county scout executive, succeeding Harry Wilson, who resigned about six weeks ago to go to Florida, it was announced today.

Felton has been at the head of a Scout troop in Lisbon for several months. He has been acting executive since Wilson resigned.

Felton will maintain his headquarters at the election board offices in the Betz building.

Generally the individual who persists in pleading one of these forgotten, hopeless causes finally goes more or less loco, from disappointment and a sense of real or fancied wrongs he's suffered. Then, though it's too bad, he becomes a pest of the first water.

They try now to hide behind roll top desks, screens, bookcases and other improvised barricades of furniture and stacked-up volumes of the Congressional Record — but pooh! nothing will stop one of these confirmed haunters of the halls of national legislation short of a solid, permanent partition and a thick oak door, locked on the inside and watched by a resolute secretary with a sharp eye to distinguish between an uninfluential "poor nut" and a substantial constituent who packs a bunch of votes in his pocket.

It may be a cold blooded view to take but it's a practical one.

Washington is level full of unfortunates who have or think they have just claims against the government which they can't get acted on.

They date well back toward the time of the Revolution. Any number of them mean nothing to the present generation of lawmakers. They might as well be dropped, because it's a dead certainty nothing ever will be done about them.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—No other public man is so pestered as a member of the house of representatives.

The president is the shining mark for visitors in the capital but they're carefully sorted out before they get to him. They're kept moving. The most important caller is allowed only so much time, generally no more than two or three minutes. When it's up, in comes the next man, crowding the first one out automatically.

CAPITOL DOME.

Ordinary folk pass along in line, livestock in a packing house chute. It there's any delay, there's somebody to punch 'em.

Each lesser executive has his antechamber, with a bouncer on guard.

To reach a senator in his private den it's necessary to pass his secretary's inspection in an outer waiting room.

A representative's office is wide open to the public.

With the exception of about half a dozen representatives in key positions, like the floor leaders and chairmen of the most important committees, members of the lower house of congress have just one room apiece in which to transact all their official business.

Walking along the corridor of the house office building, you look right in and see whether or not any given representative is on the job, and if he is, you're at full liberty to enter and bother him all you please, stay as long as you like and waste as much of this time as suits your own convenience. Being a politician, and therefore afraid to offend anybody, he won't be in a position to show the slightest sign of resentment.

As is to be expected, congressmen are the victims of cranks of every imaginable variety. They have grievances or they want something from the government or they're urging legislation of one sort or another and they can and do talk on these subjects interminably.

Representatives have been known to flee their offices and dictate their correspondence to their stenographers in their automobiles, parked around the capitol, to escape these persecutors.

That's why members of the lower house are clamoring for a new office

Look at My Hair

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

Countless women ask me how I developed such a marvelous head of hair. It is thick, silky, lustrous. Every year it becomes more luxuriant. I have never had falling hair or dandruff and never a touch of gray.

I owe that Hair to the genius of French experts. They have given me from time to time the best hair helps discovered. In late years I've combined them. Now I offer them all to you, on every toilet counter, under the name of Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth.

My Hair Youth is concentrated. I apply it with an eyedropper directly to the scalp. There it instantly combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It tones and stimulates the scalp. My glorious hair is the simple result of that daily application. For years and years it has brought like results to my beautiful friends on the stage.

Every girl and woman owes herself a knowledge of Hair Youth. If you watch its effects for a day or two you will never go without it. And it may add to you or keep for you a priceless beauty item.

The coupon will bring a sample bottle, an eyedropper and my Beauty Book. Mail it to me for your hair's sake. Clip it now.

For Trial Bottle 88 of Hair Youth, mail this today to Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, Ill. Enclose 10c for mailing expenses.

BOWDLER GOES TO JAIL CELL

Ulyatt and Lawyer Begin Moundsville Penitentiary Terms.

Refused an application for a 15-day stay of execution, Arthur E. Bowdler, former East Liverpool attorney, and Gordon D. Ulyatt, his business associate in the Real Estate Guaranty Mortgage company of Wheeling, today were in the Moundsville penitentiary where they will serve terms of five years each, imposed by the Ohio county circuit courts for violation of the West Virginia state speculative securities act.

Counsel for the two defendants who surrendered Tuesday, asked that an additional stay of execution be granted in order that the prisoners might close their business affairs. Mrs. Ulyatt appeared in court with her husband.

Prosecuting Attorney A. C. Schiffler opposed the stay of execution.

Commitment papers for the prisoners, who also were fined $5,000, were being prepared by Lionel L. Nightengale, clerk of the Ohio county circuit court.

EARL FELTON SCOUT CHIEF

Earl Felton, Lisbon, has been appointed county scout executive, succeeding Harry Wilson, who resigned about six weeks ago to go to Florida, it was announced today.

Felton has been at the head of a Scout troop in Lisbon for several months. He has been acting executive since Wilson resigned.

Felton will maintain his headquarters at the election board offices in the Betz building.

Countless women ask me how I developed such a marvelous head of hair. It is thick, silky, lustrous. Every year it becomes more luxuriant. I have never had falling hair or dandruff and never a touch of gray.

I owe that Hair to the genius of French experts. They have given me from time to time the best hair helps discovered. In late years I've combined them. Now I offer them all to you, on every toilet counter, under the name of Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth.

My Hair Youth is concentrated. I apply it with an eyedropper directly to the scalp. There it instantly combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It tones and stimulates the scalp. My glorious hair is the simple result of that daily application. For years and years it has brought like results to my beautiful friends on the stage.

Every girl and woman owes herself a knowledge of Hair Youth. If you watch its effects for a day or two you will never go without it. And it may add to you or keep for you a priceless beauty item.

The coupon will bring a sample bottle, an eyedropper and my Beauty Book. Mail it to me for your hair's sake. Clip it now.

Blanket Absolution For Players In "Expose" Predicted

Diamond Stars Deny Risberg's Charges Before Judge Landis

Preponderance of Rebuttal Testimony Offered by Collins, Cobb, Rowland, Schalk, Bush and Others Makes General Acquittal Almost Certainty; "Swede" Sticks to Story.

By Davis J. Walsh.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Blanket absolution for players, coaches and managers, past and present, who were named in "Swede" Risberg's strictly personal expose of major league baseball, was deemed inevitable today in spite of the fact that a further and final airing of the blacklisted player's charges still was to be accounted for in Judge Landis' somewhat semi-public inner office tomorrow. The preponderance of rebuttal testimony taken yesterday made a general acquittal of all concerned almost a certainty.

It was offered by Eddie Collins, among the greatest players of the modern generation; Ray Schalk and Donie Bush, Chicago and Pittsburgh managers; Ty Cobb, the great Georgian whose name has remained under something of a cloud as a result of unsustained charge that he engaged in a betting coup; Clarence Rowland, American league umpire, and, in fact, all who were named in Risberg's now famous process known as "sloughing" ball games. Every one called to the stand entered emphatic and, in some cases, convincing denials of the allegations.

Risberg Sticks to Story.

There was one exception and it was furnished by Charles "Swede" Risberg, who stuck to his story that in September, 1917, the Chicago White Sox all and severally had contributed $45 each to a pool he alleges was raised to reward Detroit for having "sloughed" a series to the Sox earlier in the month. Nor did he retreat from his position when witness followed witness with almost monotonous repetition of testimony to the effect that the pool was a reward to Detroit pitchers for winning a series from Boston.

He was all alone, too, when he declared that Chick Gandil, Joe Jackson, Happy Felsch and himself had misplayed batters in order to slough a series to Detroit in 1919 by way of further reward and his isolation was heightened by the last testimony of the day, which was furnished by George "Buck" Weaver, dropped from baseball with Risberg and others as a result of the 1919 world series expose.

Weaver stated that he had refused to contribute to the fund, that he heard no talk of sloughing by Risberg and Gandil either in 1917 or 1919 or at any time and that he had not observed any misplayings of batters by any member of the club. He supported Risberg only in the matter of saying the fund was represented as a gift to the Detroit club and not its pitchers.

Await Chick Gandil.

Yet Risberg, something of a heroic figure as he fought grimly alone against the opposition's weight of numbers, is not entirely without hope that he may yet make a showing of his tale of piracy in the club house.

According to present understanding, Chick Gandil, key man with Risberg in the alleged conspiracy, was due to arrive from El Paso this morning and will be one of those heard tomorrow. It might be that he will make himself heard today but if he does, he will go contrary to prevailing custom among witnesses summoned. So steadfast have they been in refusing to discuss the case out of "court" that the inference has been taken that all of them were warned against promiscuous talking by Judge Landis.

However, an order from Landis means less than nothing in Gandil's gay young life. This pair is not exactly suited to the role of room mates now or at any time henceforth.

Bill James Summoned.

Gandil may very well prove of great aid and comfort to Risberg. Another possibility is Bill James, who seems to have handled the business end of the pool for Detroit. If both defendants and accuser are to be believed, James was a very active young man about that time. He wasn't present yesterday but he has been duly summoned and, if he arrives in time for tomorrow's hearing or at all, he will be grilled like a thin steak.

VOLUNTEER FIVE COPS 21-20 GAME

LANDIS' TRIAL RESEMBLES OLD GRADS REUNION

Accused in Happy Mood; Cobb is Life of Party.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.— If the famous baseball luminaries attending Commissioner Landis' special invitation affair in his chambers here are downhearted over the charges brought against them by Charles "Swede" Risberg, there was nothing in their demeanor or conversation to indicate the fact.

It was more like a homecoming celebration of old grads than a group of famous ball players whose brilliant records of achievement on the diamond were threatened to be wiped out by the suspicions of scandal. The famous old song, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," would not have sounded out of place, considering the happy mood of the accused.

Even the great Ty Cobb, who has considerable more to worry about than the new list of men placed under a cloud by the tales of Risberg, managed to be quite jovial. In fact, Ty was the life of the party.

The Georgia cracker was standing in a group of old friends and admirers when Eddie Collins walked up and slapped him on the back.

"Well, well, if it isn't old Eddie Collins," said Cobb grinning broadly. "Glad to see you, Eddie. Understand you're one of us now. Welcome to the fold, old kid. Our membership is getting to be quite exclusive."

While Cobb, Collins and others were chatting affably, a touching scene took place. Buck Weaver, one of the ousted "Black Sox," moved timidly toward Ty Cobb. He and Cobb had not met since the famous world series scandal of 1919, the storm that carried young Weaver out of baseball.

Buck was reported to have accepted the invitation of Landis partly on the theory he would substantiate the story told by Risberg. Buck was obviously self-conscious as he moved toward his former mates.

"Put her there, Buck. How are you, boy? Haven't seen you since 1920," said Cobb warmly. The others were as cordial in their greetings to Weaver. The latter was quite moved by the welcome. Later he slightly touched a handkerchief to his eyes.

There is considerable sympathy among ball players and fans hereabouts for Weaver. They feel that in a great measure he was the victim of circumstances, combined with the indiscreet but not dishonest follies of extreme youth. Buck was a very young man when the world series scandal carried him into baseball oblivion. He is fighting for reinstatement.

There was little serious discussion among the assembled players. They seemed certain that no fair minded judge and public would accept the word of a discredited player against their own good words. The banter continued throughout the session. One wag caused an uproar when he asked aloud:

FARRAR VICTOR OVER WEBBER

One of the flashiest three-cushion billiard exhibitions of the season here was staged last night at the Academy parlors when Cleo Farrar defeated W. C. Webber, 25 to 11.

Farrar contributed a high run of eight.

PAOLINO MEETS HANSEN FIRST

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Paolino, the Spanish heavyweight, will make his American ring debut here on Feb. 7 in a 10-round bout with Knute Hansen, the giant Dane from Wisconsin who outpointed Monte Munn recently. WELTER CHAMP GOES TO COAST

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of the world, was today enroute to California where he will fight several battles in preparation for the opening of the outdoor season in the east and middlewest. Mickey expects to be a busy champion this summer and expressed himself as anxious to keep in the best possible condition. While in California, he will meet among others Leo Lomski, one of the best middleweights on the Pacific slope.

Within the last few weeks he has parted with both Zack Wheat, outfielder, and Jack Fournier, first baseman. Now Hendrick is in line for either job, filling in where he'll fit best.

HARVEY HENDRICK.

Hendrick's career is a bit unusual. Was 23 when Memphis gave him his first real tryout. Played with Chattanooga in 1921, was drafted by Red Sox in 1922 and released to Galveston. Recalled in fall and traded to Yanks. Was waived to Cleveland in 1925 and farmed to Providence. Sold to New Orleans last spring.

The management of the club, notifying the Wellsville club of the cancellation, announced that East Palestine is "out of the league." Reasons for the action have not yet been made public.

The Paragons had been making a good showing thus far, having won two and lost two for a .500 standing in the circuit.

Lisbon last night went into a tie with Salineville for fifth place (if East Palestine is not considered), as a result of a victory at Columbiana. The county seaters turned the Boosters back by the count of 36 to 28, both teams using their regular lineups.

Two contests are on the boards for tonight. Damascus will play at Salem and Columbiana will make its appearance at Lisbon.

Haskin's Letter

but it is conservatively estimated that 4,500,000 cars were turned out in the United States in 1926. When production records were broken in 1925 with a total of 4,336,271 cars, few of the leaders in the industry were sufficiently well informed or so optimistic as to predict that a new record could bet set up during the succeeding twelve months. On the contrary, there was more than ever of that old talk about the saturation point having been reached, and that the time was at hand when production must slow down.

However, for the first eleven months of 1926 motor production totaled 4,272,000 cars, which was only 64,000 less than the total for the entire preceding record-breaking year, and it is predicted that the December production will reach at least 225,000, which will set the present year's record at approximately 4,500,000.

Perhaps the feature of the year has been the increased production of General Motors. Three years ago the Ford factories turned out approximately 2,000,000 cars as compared with 1,300,000 for all other manufacturers. In 1925 the Ford production was about the same, but competitors had increased their output to more than 2,300,000. This change is accentuated in the figures for the year just closed, Ford production having dropped to about 1,600,000 cars, while General Motors alone has equalled that output, and other companies have turned out approximately 1,300,000 cars during 1926.

Shop Equipment Exhibit.

One of the new and important features of the forthcoming Automobile Show and one of the especial interest to the public, will be the shop equipment exhibit.

"Practically every device developed for the speeding up of automotive service will be on view," it is announced, "and much of it will be hooked up to power, thus permitting the actual operations and results to be carefully studied. With the tremendous increase in the number of motor cars in use, the demand for service has increased proportionately. When repairs or replacements are needed they are demanded in the shortest possible time. To turn work out in the number of hours that used to be measured by days has been made possible only by the development of special service equipment."

The replacement of brake lining is cited as one illustration. Under old conditions it was regarded as a fast piece of work if such a job on all four wheels of a car could be finished in a day, and two or three men were required to do it. With modern machinery one man can do it in a few hours. With service station labor at $1.50 an hour, or more, the customer can appreciate the virtue of the new equipment. Grinding the valves and removing the deposits of carbon from the cylinders was likewise an all-day job under old conditions that can now be done in half the time, or less. A worn bearing or crankshaft no longer means the virtual disassembling of a car, for the motor is left in its place and the repair is completed in a fraction of the time formerly required.

Air compressors that were formerly used only to inflate tires are now used to paint and wash cars, and both these operations have been speeded up greatly. For instance a car can been washed in ten minutes, and a hand-washing process anywhere from good job made of it, whereas by the an hour to two hours was required and the job was frequently but an indifferent one.

The electric drill has eliminated hand labor, which was more costly and less satisfactory, and hydraulic presses have replaced the sledgehammer, performing faster and cleaner work, without any danger of injuring parts adjacent to those under repair.

Make Customers Happy.

Nothing is so irritating to an automobile owner as to be compelled to take his car to a service station and then have it tarry there interminably. It is irritating not only because he wants the use of his car within the minimum space of time—or a little quicker!—but because he knows how the bills mount up with a stiff hourly rate for labor.

Consequently all the advances that are being made in the maintenance field, which means more economical car operation, greater freedom from trouble, and a material reduction in the time a car must b elaid up for adjustments, replacements, or a general overhauling, will go far toward making the customers happy and keeping them in that frame of mind. And keeping the customers happy is a big part of the automobile business today, as it is of every other business.

One thing will be made apparent at the Grand Central Palace during the next ten days, and that is that Secretary Hoover's standardization ideas have not laid hold of the automotive industry as yet. There has been no concerted move to effect uniformity in the size of cars. For instance, there will be on exhibition sedans that vary from a monster with a wheel base of 150 inches to a midget of 100 inches, and there will be similar variations in size of practically all the other types of cars. But for all of them it is claimed that they are better cars, with more refinements, than have ever been shown before. Also it is said that the manufacturers and their designers believe that the new models represent about the last word in automobile construction.

Coincident with the National Automobile Show will be the meeting in New York City of the World Motor Transport Congress, sponsored by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. More than 600 delegates from foreign countries, including manufacturers, engineers, and dealers, will be in attendance, and from one country at least will come representatives of that important person mentioned heretofore—the customer. Union des Vehicules, the French organization of commercial car owners, is sending two delegates and there will also be in attendance several members of the American Automotive club of Paris.

This will be the third session of the World Motor Transport Congress.

Exactly Suits Elderly Persons.

There is a sound therapeutic reason why Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds is especially suited to the needs of elderly persons: because it contains no chloroform, or opiates to cause constipation (that bug-bear of advancing years) and to dry up the natural and necessary secretions. Mildly laxative, wonderfully soothing and healing to the irritated area, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound quickly stops all coughs and throat irritations, lingering "flu" coughs and disturbing night coughs. Is exactly suited to the needs of elderly people. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

but it is conservatively estimated that 4,500,000 cars were turned out in the United States in 1926. When production records were broken in 1925 with a total of 4,336,271 cars, few of the leaders in the industry were sufficiently well informed or so optimistic as to predict that a new record could bet set up during the succeeding twelve months. On the contrary, there was more than ever of that old talk about the saturation point having been reached, and that the time was at hand when production must slow down.

However, for the first eleven months of 1926 motor production totaled 4,272,000 cars, which was only 64,000 less than the total for the entire preceding record-breaking year, and it is predicted that the December production will reach at least 225,000, which will set the present year's record at approximately 4,500,000.

Perhaps the feature of the year has been the increased production of General Motors. Three years ago the Ford factories turned out approximately 2,000,000 cars as compared with 1,300,000 for all other manufacturers. In 1925 the Ford production was about the same, but competitors had increased their output to more than 2,300,000. This change is accentuated in the figures for the year just closed, Ford production having dropped to about 1,600,000 cars, while General Motors alone has equalled that output, and other companies have turned out approximately 1,300,000 cars during 1926.

Shop Equipment Exhibit.

One of the new and important features of the forthcoming Automobile Show and one of the especial interest to the public, will be the shop equipment exhibit.

"Practically every device developed for the speeding up of automotive service will be on view," it is announced, "and much of it will be hooked up to power, thus permitting the actual operations and results to be carefully studied. With the tremendous increase in the number of motor cars in use, the demand for service has increased proportionately. When repairs or replacements are needed they are demanded in the shortest possible time. To turn work out in the number of hours that used to be measured by days has been made possible only by the development of special service equipment."

The replacement of brake lining is cited as one illustration. Under old conditions it was regarded as a fast piece of work if such a job on all four wheels of a car could be finished in a day, and two or three men were required to do it. With modern machinery one man can do it in a few hours. With service station labor at $1.50 an hour, or more, the customer can appreciate the virtue of the new equipment. Grinding the valves and removing the deposits of carbon from the cylinders was likewise an all-day job under old conditions that can now be done in half the time, or less. A worn bearing or crankshaft no longer means the virtual disassembling of a car, for the motor is left in its place and the repair is completed in a fraction of the time formerly required.

Air compressors that were formerly used only to inflate tires are now used to paint and wash cars, and both these operations have been speeded up greatly. For instance a car can been washed in ten minutes, and a hand-washing process anywhere from good job made of it, whereas by the an hour to two hours was required and the job was frequently but an indifferent one.

The electric drill has eliminated hand labor, which was more costly and less satisfactory, and hydraulic presses have replaced the sledgehammer, performing faster and cleaner work, without any danger of injuring parts adjacent to those under repair.

Make Customers Happy.

Nothing is so irritating to an automobile owner as to be compelled to take his car to a service station and then have it tarry there interminably. It is irritating not only because he wants the use of his car within the minimum space of time—or a little quicker!—but because he knows how the bills mount up with a stiff hourly rate for labor.

Consequently all the advances that are being made in the maintenance field, which means more economical car operation, greater freedom from trouble, and a material reduction in the time a car must b elaid up for adjustments, replacements, or a general overhauling, will go far toward making the customers happy and keeping them in that frame of mind. And keeping the customers happy is a big part of the automobile business today, as it is of every other business.

One thing will be made apparent at the Grand Central Palace during the next ten days, and that is that Secretary Hoover's standardization ideas have not laid hold of the automotive industry as yet. There has been no concerted move to effect uniformity in the size of cars. For instance, there will be on exhibition sedans that vary from a monster with a wheel base of 150 inches to a midget of 100 inches, and there will be similar variations in size of practically all the other types of cars. But for all of them it is claimed that they are better cars, with more refinements, than have ever been shown before. Also it is said that the manufacturers and their designers believe that the new models represent about the last word in automobile construction.

Coincident with the National Automobile Show will be the meeting in New York City of the World Motor Transport Congress, sponsored by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. More than 600 delegates from foreign countries, including manufacturers, engineers, and dealers, will be in attendance, and from one country at least will come representatives of that important person mentioned heretofore—the customer. Union des Vehicules, the French organization of commercial car owners, is sending two delegates and there will also be in attendance several members of the American Automotive club of Paris.

This will be the third session of the World Motor Transport Congress.

Exactly Suits Elderly Persons.

There is a sound therapeutic reason why Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds is especially suited to the needs of elderly persons: because it contains no chloroform, or opiates to cause constipation (that bug-bear of advancing years) and to dry up the natural and necessary secretions. Mildly laxative, wonderfully soothing and healing to the irritated area, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound quickly stops all coughs and throat irritations, lingering "flu" coughs and disturbing night coughs. Is exactly suited to the needs of elderly people. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

Mikados, Old Age.
Just Spoiled.
See the Pacific.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

One mikado is dead, his son and sucessor Hirohito too ill to attend his father's funeral rites.

Japan does not depend, any more than Britain does, on the health or wisdom of hereditary rulers. The eiders in Japan, the commons in England, decide what shall be done. The king and mikado say "yes."

Dr. Charlotte de Galiere Davenport, charming lady who lectures on health, looks about 40, and is actually 102 years old, startles good W. C. T. U.'s with this: "To live long, eat when hungry, exercise, drink moderately, don't smoke too much."

The lady has Russian and French blood, both good for long life, and, most important, she weighs 120 pounds. Your body is an irrigation farm. Your heart the pump. Your blood the water. A light body calls for light pumping making the heart's work easy. Cut down your weight, wisely, and add to your life. Every added pound means more work for the heart.

J. N. MOORE, University of Illinois sophomore, wrote, before killing himself, "It raises the devil with me to think of having to slave around and work like the devil and just grow old. I can't see the idea of wading through school, then dash bravely out and get a big old job at a hundred a month."

In six words of his letter the young man explains what is really the matter with him, "I am just spoiled I suppose."

THIS is written at the end of the twelfth trip, in 14 months, across this continent. Include in New Year resolutions a trip to the Pacific in 1927. Go once and you will go again.

Four 63-hour trains run from Chicago to the Pacific, all excellent, over the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Rock Island.

Each shows different sections of this big country. They all show, by daylight, territory through which slower trains have gone at night.

This writer proposes next time to use the "Golden State Limited," over the Rock Island, that connects with the Southern Pacific, and will take you the whole length of the Pacific coast.

European names are now given their native spelling on American maps. The geographical experts, the map companies, and the International Postal Union, have finally agreed on the right spellings to make the mails, cables, and business move more accurately. Travel agencies use the new spellings.

A NEW MAP of Europe is now complete, including all spelling corrections, and all changes made by the war. The new map is not yet on general sale, but since every home, office, and school will want one, our Washington Information Bureau has secured an advance supply, in seven colors, 21 by 28 inches, on heavy paper.

On the reverse of this map have been printed the latest figures of areas, populations, money values, foreign debts, commercial standings and other salient facts about each country.

As a special service to our readers, this new map, complete, is made available for a postage and handling charge of ten cents.

Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Chic Gandil Fails To Reach Chicago For Scandal Probe

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Chic Gandil, "Black Sox" first baseman, reported coming here from El Paso, Tex., to substantiate charges of "Swede" Risberg in the latest baseball scandal, did not arrive this morning as scheduled.

He is expected to testify at the resumption of Commissioner K. M. Landis' hearing tomorrow. Gandil is quoted as saying he will offer testimony of a more sensational character than Risberg's charges that Detroit pitchers "threw" a series to the White Sox in 1917.

SENATE PROTESTS AS U. S. NEUTRALITY CEASES IN NICARAGUAN CLASH

MORE AMERICAN MARINES LANDED

"This is Intervention," Says Senator Borah in Reference to State Department Policy in Civil War.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—More warships and marines were ordered rushed today to Nicaragua to reinforce the American naval forces that have occupied most of the country's principal ports and bottled up the Liberal revolutionists.

Three Warships Sail.

At the request of the state department, orders were issued at the navy department today for the dispatch of the U. S. S. Argonne with 400 marines, and two additional cruisers, the Marblehead and the Cincinnati, for "special duty" in Nicaraguan waters.

The disposition of these reinforcements was left to Rear Admiral Julian Latimer, the American commander in charge, and they may be used, it was stated, either on the Atlantic or Pacific coast of the country. The Sacasa Liberals control the Atlantic coast, while the Diaz government, with the aid of the American naval forces control the Pacific side.

The dispatch of the additional cruisers and personnel was ordered in the face of a threatened senate investigation of the administration's Central American policy, and was attributed to the state depart's belief that the 160 marines now stationed at Managua, the Diaz capital, are not sufficient to protect American and foreign interests.

With today's reinforcements, the United States will have six cruisers, seven destroyers, a transport ship, the

NADEL IS HELD FOR SECLUDING PAT M'DERMOTT

ALLEGED "ANGEL"

Reputed Rum Runner Will Face Trial Next Week.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 6.—Ben Nadel, ex-convict and reputed liquor runner, today was indicted by a Cuyahoga county grand jury on a charge of having provided and maintained a rendezvous where Patrick McDermott hid from police of the nation for three months before being captured and convicted of being one of the murderers of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News.

Nadel will be arraigned late today, according to Edward C. Stanton, county prosecutor, and brought to trial early next week in common pleas court here.

McDermott's alleged "angel" was arrested here yesterday after Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Slagle told police that they had hidden Pat in their apartment house at the request of Nadel, although they were unaware of the identity of their "guest."

Believes He Knows of Plot.

The Slagles' admission was corroborated and amplified later by another from Dan Praff, erstwhile companion of Nadel in underworld activities. Nadel is believed by authorities to be able to tell who conceived and engineered the plot to kill McDermott, thus clearing up all the details of the crime.

Yesterday when he was taken before Stanton he refused to admit acquaintance with either the Slagles, McDermott, Ben Rudner or Louis Mazer, the latter two yet to be tried for Mellett's murder.

FOSTORIA MAN'S DEATH SENTENCE COMMUTED; ANOTHER DIES FRIDAY

CONVICTED MAN SAYS HE ACTED IN SELF-DEFENSE IN SHOOTING

Executive, After Second Commutation to Life Imprisonment in Four Years, Stands Pat on Refusal to Heed Appeal of Robert Thompson, Murderer of Coshocton Girl.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Governor Vic Donahey this afternoon commuted the death sentence of Harley Pence, Fostoria, to life imprisonment. The governor's action was based upon recommendation of Common Pleas Judge Charles T. Warner, Columbus, trial judge.

Pence was to have been electrocuted at Ohio penitentiary here tonight. Although convicted of killing Mrs. Marjorie Boddy, also formerly of Fostoria, at their rooming house here last February, Pence claimed he acted in self-defense.

The governor extended clemency to Pence after receiving a letter from Judge Warner who stated that, "as trial judge, I am of the opinion that the ends of justice will be fully met by a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment."

"Much of the testimony that could not, under proper rules of evidence be admitted, precluded the jury from consideration of the same as reflecting upon the question of mercy," Judge Warner wrote Governor Donahey.

Commuted Wife Slayer's Sentence.

Besides the commutation granted Pence, Governor Donahey, during his four years' service as governor of Ohio, has commuted the death sentence of one other prisoner to life imprisonment. The governor, on November 27, 1924, commuted the death sentence of James Brady, Erie county, to life. Brady was convicted of killing his wife.

Governor Donahey today stood pat on his refusal to commute the death sentence of Robert F. Thompson, 54, Coshocton, convicted of murdering 10-year-old Gertrude D'Ostroph near Coshocton last July.

Thompson is scheduled to be electrocuted at Ohio penitentiary Friday night.

Three Bandits Electrocued.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Mentally exhausted by nerve-racking interviews regarding desperate last-minute action in the case of the so-called Waltham car barn slayers and suffering from a severe cold and throat affection, Governor Alvan T. Fuller was under a doctor's care today.

The bandits, John J. Devereaux, Edward J. Heinlein and John J. McLaughlin, were electrocuted at the death house at Charlestown state's prison shortly after midnight, as a crowd of 1,500 persons waited in the streets outside.

All three died bravely, walking to the electric chair repeating a prayer.

Twin Border Towns Are Again Rocked By Violent Quakes

CALEXICO, Cal., Jan. 6.—A violent earthquake rocked Calexico and Mexicali at 8:44 a. m. today, tumbling down hundreds of walls already weakened by the series of shocks felt in the twin border cities since New Year's day.

The shock appeared to be of greater intensity than any one of its more than 100 predecessors. Considerable panic ensued as the populace poured out of collapsing buildings into debris-littered streets.

No fatalities or injuries have been reported.

City Lacks $293 Of $2,250 Quota In Health Drive

East Liverpool, one of Ohio's few honor cities in the annual health seal campaign, is $293.95 short of its $2,250 quota, representing 10 seals per capita, Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, chairman, announced today in a final appeal for funds.

Only bonds, which come in denominations of $5, $10, $25, $50 and $100, are now available. One $50 bond has been sold to the City Federation of Women's clubs, while $25 bonds were taken by the Eagles, Elks and Masonic lodges and the Crockery City Ice and Products company.

The campaign was to have closed in December but Mrs. Steinfeld will continue the drive for a few days in an effort to attain the quota.

Automobile owners contributed $42,450 for street improvement, repair and maintanence in East Liverpool during 1926, Auditor William McGraw said today. Of this amount approximately $38,250 has been spent or will be paid out when all 1926 bills are settled, leaving a balance of $4,200.

The municipality's share of automobile licenses issued here was approximately $24,000, which goes into the street maintenence and repair fund, while approximately $18,450 was collected in gasoline taxes. Money from licenses is apportioned by the county auditor's office while the gasoline taxes are disbursed by the state auditor. Settlements are made quarterly.

The actual collections from the sale of 1926 plates returned to East Liverpool were $18,731.47. In addition to this $5,442.84 was forwarded last January, representing a final settlement on money collected from the sale of 1925 tags. The balance in the street maintenance and repair fund at the beginning of 1926 was a little more than $2,000 but owing to a debt of $10,800, caused by the improvement of Mulberry and Second streets, the actual deficit at the beginning of the year was more than $8,000, city officials said.

Pay for Resurfacing Jobs.

The first apportionment of 1926 receipts was used to meet the $10,000 debt which council had authorized during the fall of 1925 to pay the contractors for the two resurfacing jobs.

Another big drain was the $10,000 appropriation for the grading of Dresden avenue to connect with the new Youngstown-East Liverpool inter-county highway. The balance was spent for street patching and other maintenance work.

The $18,450, collected in gasoline taxes was used largely to maintain the street department, according to Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore. Had it not been for this fund, the city would have been forced to lay off practically every street department employe at the beginning of the year, Moore said.

In the gas tax fund at the present there is about $4,570. Bills, estimated between $600 and $700, contracted for prior to January 1, 1927, are yet to be paid. The balance will go toward street work this year.

In the maintanence and repair fund, there was a Jan. 1 balance of $319, the auditor said. This fund is expected to jump to the $10,000 mark when the county auditor makes his returns for January, which will be received early in February.

Proposed Improvements.

Major street improvements which will be taken this year include the Fourth street resurfacing job, which is now held up by a court action; resurfacing of Pennsylvania avenue from the Garfield school east and the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue, contract for which has been awarded and work on which will start early in the spring.

County Auditor Walker said today that county road fund's share of motor car license receipts during the year was $18,412.71.

In addition, $40,000 was paid in gasoline taxes. In all, the fund received $58,412.71, which is the largest amount ever credited in one year since the automobile came into general use.

Distribution of Fund.

Aside from East Liverpool and Wellsville, the distribution of automobile license money during 1926 was as follows: East Palestine, $3,708.53; Salem, $8,849.84; Leetonia, $1,411.36; Rogers, $190.23; Hanover, $224.51; Columbiana, $2,468.46; New Waterford, $337.10; Lisbon, $3,131.74; Salineville, $1,372.66; Washingtonville, $244.22; total distribution $45,134.99.

The state shared to the extent of $62,480.42.

January proved to be the largest month for distribution as $24,483.71 was paid to corporations. April was the second largest, with a distribution of $3,492.95.

The distribution for December, the smallest of the year, was, East Liverpool, $31.13; Salem, $41.14; Wellsville, $8; Leetonia, Lisbon and Salineville $2 each; Columbiana $6; New Waterford $2.30. The state received $139.94, the county $45.37 and the several corporations $94.57.

In the county 13,788 automobile licenses were issued during the year. The distribution was as follows: East Liverpool, 5,274; Salem, 2,839; Wellsville, 1,442; East Palestine, 1,201; Lisbon, 1,020; Columbiana, 691; Salineville, 495; Leetonia, 442; New Waterford, 121; Washingtonville, 103; Hanoverton 79; Rogers 71.

The Little White Hag

SYNOPSIS.

Quexter, the narrator of the tale, is an American employed by the American and Overseas bank in Paris. He starts for Geneva to see the workings of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijon between trains. He is accosted by a small, undistinguished looking American who asks to share his room, stating that he is a schoolmaster. As the two lunch at the inn their attention is attracted by two people, a stout, flashily dressed man and a young and attractive woman.

The "schoolmaster" seems nervous, fussing about the locks on door all night. Quexter discovers that the story he had told about being imperfectly acquainted with French is false. Quexter sleeps heavily and next morning the schoolmaster is gone—through the window evidently, as the door is still locked on the inside.

Arrived in Geneva, Quexter visits the League of Nations headquarters, learning of the League's investigations into the opium traffic. He goes to the municipal casino or kursaal, and at the next table sits the fat man he had seen at Dijon with another man, a Jew, and a woman of the underworld. He overhears their conversation in which the fat man complains about a woman called "Stella," whom he does not trust, and a mysterious "Center" under whose orders the two men and "Stella" seem to be. A dancing girl carrying a basket of flowers steps to the center of the floor and Baldassare, the fat man, exclaims, "Stella at last!" Shee throws two bouquets, Quexter picking up one and the fat man the other. In his bunch Quexter finds a handkerchief which he uses to wrap up his finger when his taxi meets with an accident and it is cut. He sends the handkerchief to the laundry next morning. The fat man, Baldassare Marce, makes him a call.

Read chapter six to learn of Signor Marce's odd demand and what answer Quexter gives him.

CHAPTER SIX.

Its owner appeared almost at once, following the page boy. I recognized him immediately. It was the man from Dijon who had been seated at the net table to mine at the Kursaal on the previous evening.

I rose.

"Mr. Quexter?" he said to me interrogatively.

I bowed and motioned him to sit down.

"You wish to speak to me?" I began.

He did not reply immediately, but looked at me in an odd manner, turning his head on one side, in order to bring his uninjured eye to bear. He squinted horribly and, in his tight-fitting blue suit, with the small diamond pin glittering in his tie, he was far from an engaging spectacle.

I watched him narrowly and soon noticed that he was nervous. There were small beads of sweat on his forehead, and his left hand played with the binding on the arm of his chair. I waited for him in silence.

At last he said, in excellent English, though with a marked foreign accent:

"It's a fine day, is it not, Monsieur?"

I assented.

"A very fine day for the time of year," he went on. "Monsieur knows Geneva."

"No," I replied.

"Monsieur has never been here before?"

"No."

"Monsieur comes from the United States, perhaps?"

This persistent questioning nettled me, especially as I had taken a strong dislike to the man.

"Perhaps," I said shortly. "Why do you ask me these questions?"

He turned his head sideways, so as to fix me with the other eye. He was really a most unpleasant creature.

"Ecuse me," he said, "but you received a bunch of flowers last night in the Kursaal—from a dancing girl."

"Well?" I queried.

"Have you got it with you still?"

The man was getting on my nerves.

"I beg your pardon," I said, "but what business is it of yours?"

"I am very anxious to obtain it," he said eagerly. "It is nothing to you. I ask you as a favor to give it to me."

He leaned forward as he spoke, and the one eye fixed directly upon me shone with excitement.

"Why do you want it?" I inquired.

I thought is was now my turn to ask some questions.

"They were not meant for you," he replied, falsetto and voluble. "You are American. You do not understand our Southern temperament. It is warm, passionate. Those flowers were meant for me. I am her lover, do you understand? They were meant for me. I look for them every night."

He went on like this for some time, a grotesque figure, large and loose, with greedy eyes, an unpleasant example of the man of fifty who refuses decently to grow old.

I contrasted him in my mind's eye with the slim form of the girl I had seen dancing, for, although she had made no particular impression on me at the time, I had noticed that she was graceful and young.

I cut short his dreadful protestations.

"Sir," I said shortly, "if I remember rightly, you had your flowers last night. Two bunches were thrown."

"Yes, but it was the wrong one," he wailed. "It did not contain her handkerchief. Monsieur, she promised me her handkerchief, and it must be in the other bouquet."

He seemed almost on the verge of tears, and he leaned farther forward over the little table between us, which still held the remains of my breakfast.

"There was only one bunch of white carnations," he said eagerly. "There never is more than one. I mean, Monsieur, that there is never more than one of the same color. So you see," he ended lamely, "the handkerchief must have been in yours."

I looked searchingly at the man who pretended to be so helplessly love lorn. His emotion, which, if genuine, might have been pathetic or grotesque, had a quality which made it merely repulsive. I divined, in fact, that he was shamming, and that I was dealing with a thoroughly disagreeable brute, enacting, for some purpose unknown, the role of a man of sentiment. I remembered, for one thing, that on the previous evening he had been in the company of one "Didi," to whose charms he had not, to say the least, seemed wholly indifferent.

I thought well to remind him of the fact.

"Well, Sir," I said, "naturally I do not wish to intrude upon sentiments of so intimate a character. If the kerchief means so much to you, I suppose I must take steps to have it restored. But——"

I paused, and his ugly face, which had lit up with eager anticipation at my opening words, changed as swiftly as if it had been struck.

"Well?" he said, his voice harsh and out of all control.

"There was another lady seated at your table last night," I continued sweetly, "with whom you seemed to be on very excellent terms; that is all."

"That girl," stammered the man, "she knows all about it, I assure you. She, you see, is my sister."

Now I knew that he was lying and I was not in the least inclined to grant his request for the handkerchief. I was more than ever sure that the motive he alleged for its recovery was false, and I was beginning to find the whole affair suspicious, though I had not the least idea what it was I suspected.

"How did you know I was staying here?" I asked him suddenly.

He shifted his head again, bringing his other eye into play.

"I followed you home," he confessed, obviously afraid that I might take it ill. "I would have spoken to you last night but you were walking with a gendarme."

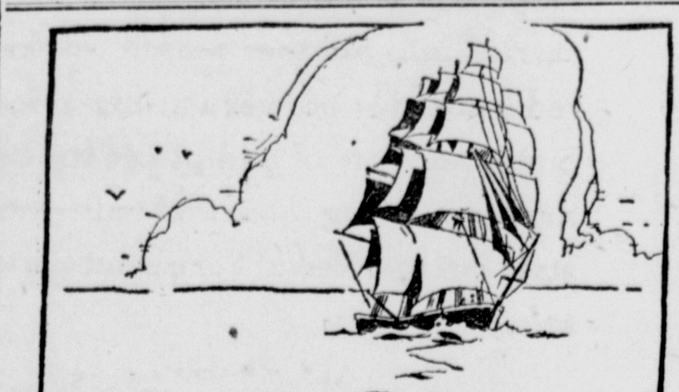

"I don't like being followed," I said sharply. "And I'm beginning to think that this conversation has lasted long enough."

"But the handkerchief," he persisted.

"Leave me your address, and I'll see what I can do about it," I replied with an air of dismissal.

QUIT GETTING UP NIGHTS

A Healthy Bladder Acts During the Day

C. N. Shuman, Republic, Ohio, says: "Before taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) had to get up six or seven times each night. Now I do not get up at all. You may use my name if it would benefit anyone with bladder troubled." Be careful not to take drugs that check the action of the bladder. You may have to continue its use. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) increases the action during the day. It cleanses the bladder as epsom salts do the bowels driving out foreign matter, neutralizing excess acids, thereby relieving the irritation which causes "Getting Up Nights." The tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloway, Druggist.

Two Dismembered Human Arms Found On Toledo Highway

TOLEDO, Jan. 6—Two dismembered human arms were found near the Benmore road a few miles from here yesterday by a grocery clark, are believed to be the missing members of a body cut up and stewn in that vicinity in November.

Bertillon experts have taken finger impressions in the hope of identifying the victim. The head has been preserved by Coroner Henzler. This indicates that the man was tortured before being put to death. The torso still is missing.

Great Britain is considering provisional agreements with Germany for additional air lines between the two countries.

Don't Let a Cough or Cold 'Go Down'

Quickly and unfailingly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of danger. Real medicine, reaching deep with its soothing, healing power, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes of your throat and bronchial tubes.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1927.

Chamber of Commerce Speaker

With the selection of United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, as the speaker for the eleventh annual Chamber of Commerce dinner to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, January 18, East Liverpool business and professional men and their guests will be given an opportunity to hear a possible candidate for a place on the Democratic party's national ticket in 1928.

Dr. Copeland, as he is familiarly known because of his medical profession and his newspaper contributions on health subjects, is high in the councils of the leaders of the party of Jefferson and not infrequently has been referred to as a compromise possibility for the presidential or vice-presidential nomination in the event of a repetition of the Al Smith-William G. McAdoo stalemate which characterized the Madison Garden convention of 1924.

Varied indeed has been the career of Senator Copeland. Native of Michigan, ophthalmologist, post-graduate of medicine in England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Belgium, practitioner in Bay City, Mich., where he later served as mayor, and in after years commissioner of public health and president of the board of education in New York City are some of the milestones of his life. And, too, he has been active in national and international affairs of the Methodist Episcopal church, is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and has been honored with places of distinction by homeopathic and medical associations. Besides his health articles in newspapers, he is the author of "Refraction," a text book, and "Scientific Reasonableness of Homeopathy."

As in past years, the Chamber of Commerce committee sought an outstanding public man as the guest of honor for the annual meeting. Thanks to their efforts, members and friends of the organization have heard with interest the late Warren S. Stone, for many years leader of one of the railroad brotherhoods; Geoge Creel, who was government news censor during the World war; Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy during the administrations of Woodrow Wilson, and others. And now a man of equal calibre has accepted an invitation.

A New Iron Age

A new reduction process for iron ore has come in which bids fair to revolutionize the steel and iron business of the world. It is called the Hornsey process, from John H. Hornsey, metallurgical engineer, formerly of New York, who has been working out its details in England.

The National Tube company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, is sufficiently convinced of its practicality to be spending several millions in installing it at Lorain.

The cost is said to be only one-third as much as by the old method. Less heat is required. Low grade coal can be used instead of expensive coke.

If the Hornsey method proves as satisfactory as its owners and pushers think it is going to be, it will mean that most of the present blast furnaces will have to be scrapped. There will be far-reaching consequences in the steel industry all over the world, many of them impossible now to foresee.

It is too soon yet to know whether all the imposing predictions will come true, whether steel will become cheaper than wood, whether ore can be reduced at the mines, changing the whole lake shipping situation.

But stranger and more unsettling things than this have happened in the century just past. Scrapping old machinery never dismayed an American corporation if in place of it could be installed machinery and methods which would soon pay for themselves and for the apparent waste. If the people directly concerned know and understand the change that is coming and make themselves ready to accept it instead of fighting it, the change need not be disrupting.

Study For The Legion

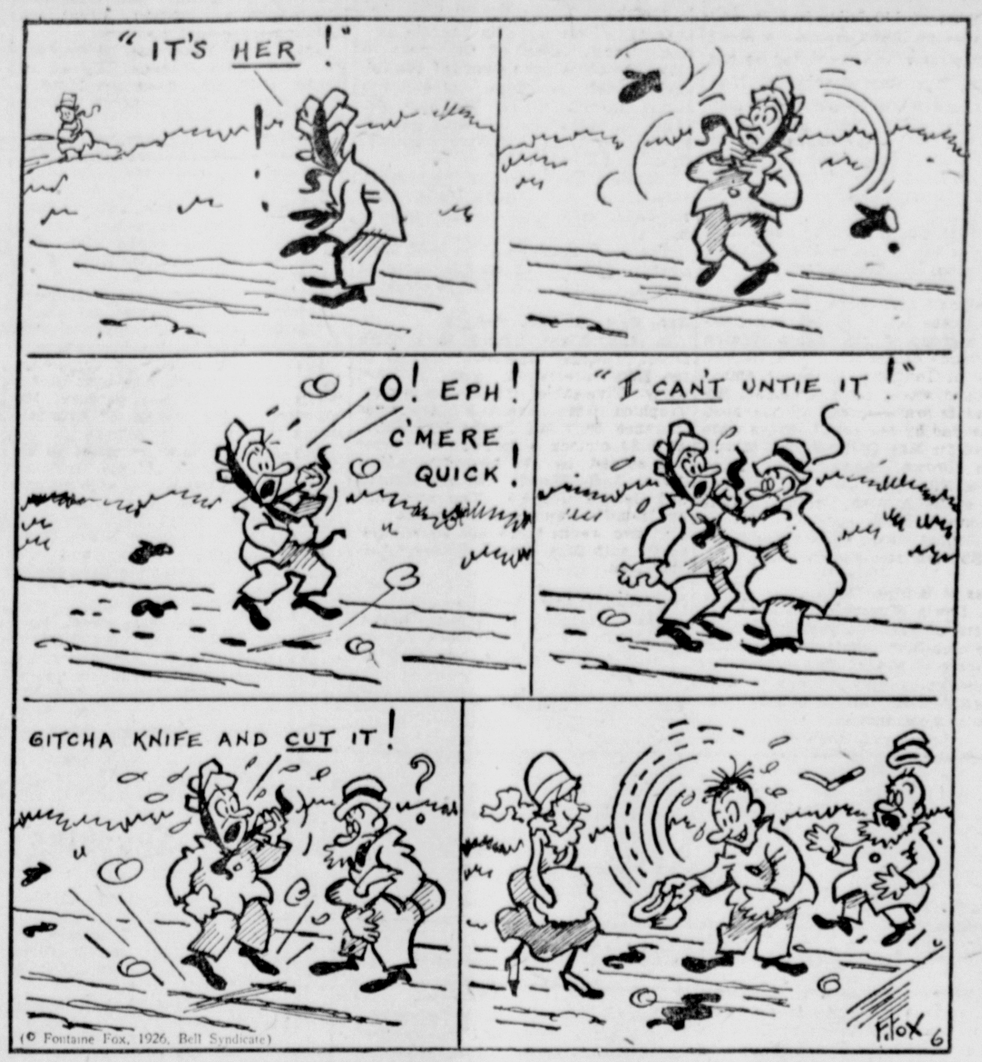

A London dispatch reports that the "Come to Britain" organization is going to make special efforts to induce the 13,000 American Legionnaires who go to Paris for their next convention to visit England while they are abroad. The things the British group will offer as inducements are worth nothing.

First it is trying to bring about improvements in hotel facilities. Also it seeks the abolition of the $10 visa charge. And lastly it expects to hurry developments of more and better summer schools at English universities.

This last inducement may cause a smile to such as think study is the last thing the Legionnaires are crossing the Atlantic for. But the smilers might be surprised to learn how many Americans are studying in England these days and how many more want to do so. A good many members of the A. E. F. who are now members of the American Legion studied in both France and England during and after the World War and won't scorn the chance to do so again.

Gunboat activities in China show, among other things, that with all her backwardness that country has kept her rivers navigable.

The Village Half-wit is Said to be Enamoured— By Fontaine Fox

My Favorite Stories

AN OLD ONE AND ITS YOUNGER HALF-BROTHER.

Everybody does know—or should know—the ancient wheeze of the theatre manager who posted a sign in his house, "Don't Smoke—Remember the Iroquois Fire," and the wag who wrote under this the added warning: "Don't Spit—Remember the Johnstown Flood." A half-brother of this yarn, of somewhat newer vintage, however, comes to me from a regular army post.

A newly enlisted private, still unskilled in military etiquette, flung a lighted cigarette end on the parade ground. The first sergeant of his company saw the crime committed. He made the offender pick up the smouldering butt and then stand at attention while being scolded at length.

"What made you late?" demanded the sergeant.

"Oh," said the private, "I walked down to the river to spit."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 6.—This afternoon I trekked out to a movie studio to watch a movie villain put the well known sin in cinema. My clothes may be gaudy but at least they are my own idea. Consequently in crossing the lot it was rather embarrassing t. hear a lady among a group of visitors inquire of an attendant: "What does his costume represent?"

I felt very much like one of those dignified chairmen of the board must feel when the prosecutor is reading his ootsey-tootsey letters to 12 perfect strangers.

Another extremely embarrassing moment wa mine in the breakfast room of what Michael Arlen calls an hotel. I sat opposite a crisp gentleman who had evidently gulped a sick clam the night before. He rustled his morning paper menacingly.

"Pleasant morning!" I ventured. I'm that way—always merry and bright. Ne nodded curtly. A silence and again disregarding Aunt Het's advice never to speak to strangers in a big city: "Big Blizzard back East." You can usually interest a California in an Eastern blizzard. A cold look.

Then I reached for a piece of toast and plop went the contents of the cream pitcher into his lap. He looked at me and gave one of those laughs where the face doesn't change expression. You know the sort. The villain laughs that way just before he plunges the dagger through the hero's—wait a minute. Adolph the dictionary. O, here it is in the v's—viscera.

The silver dollar is almost extinct back East. I never saw one during my time in New York. Perhaps it is because you can't wrap them around a roll of plain paper and impress head writers. There is something substantial and beautiful about them and a cheery sound to their ring. They are not in profusion out here but now and then you receive them in change.

California offers a variety of weather. It is not at all sunshine. Tonight for instance a heavy fog came up. To watch a great city arise from a bath of fog in gleaming dog-tooth outline is an inspiring sight.

There are golden tales of writers, obscure and great, being greeted with mammoth offers to write for the movies a half hour after they reach Los Angeles. Many drift out here expecting this windfall. So far I have received one offer which was a slight insult to what I waggishly term my intelligence. The star writers of the studios are those who have been hand picked and especially trained for the intricacies of the job. Most of the untrained boys from New York who scoffed at movies but accepted their money were devastating flops.

One notices a briskness about Los Angeles newsboys. Many have a well-dressed collegiate look. They are agreeably pleasant despite the fact they seem to yell louder than any place in the world. I saw one the other evening dressed as I never saw a newsie dressed before. He wore a dinner jacket and starched shirt and collar.

Pershing Square is the Bryant Park of the city. It is a beautifully kept mid-town breathing space but many of its benches are filled with drifting malcontents that are eddied into every city. They have come here looking for work they hope they will never find and laze through the sunny days berating the government and capitalistic power. There are women real estate "cappers" who infest public parks suggesting drives to this new addition and that—not to sell, of course, but merely as good Samaritans. Outside of this there seems to be little soliciting among strangers for real estate purchases.

Automotive Progress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan 6.—The twenty-seventh annual National Automobile Show, which will be opened at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Grand Central Palace, New York City, will be bigger and better than ever, it is promised. Some fifty different types of cars bearing distinctive names will be exhibited, and included among them will be several models that will surprise the automotive world. Also there will be a section for the display of commercial motor trucks, a feature not included in the show for several years, and nineteen manufacturers have drawn space for exhibits that will demonstrate striking advances in this form of motor transportation.

On the whole, this popular show, which draws exhibitors and visitors from all parts of the United States, and from foreign countries as well, will reflect the business and progress of the year just closed, which from the manufacturers' standpoint broke all production records in the automotive industry.

Final figures are not yet available,

IRONDALE MAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH ON BED

WILLIAM COOK KILLED SELF, POLICE CLAIM

Caller Discovers Body at Negro Worker's Home.

BULLET IN HEAD

Jefferson County Coroner Asked to Investigate.

Bulletin.

As a result of an investigation launched by Sheriff Allison, of Jefferson county, Mrs. Loraine Cook, wife of William Cook, Irondale gun victim, was arrested at her home this morning and taken to the county jail at Steubenville.

While holding to the belief of suicide, the authorities will make no formal verdict in the case until all other possible angles have been investigated.

A .32 caliber automatic revolver, which is believed to have caused the man's death, was found on the floor of the upstairs bedroom, near the side of the bed.

Cook's wife, it is said, had been sleeping down stairs. She was aroused at 5 o'clock this morning by a "caller" from the East Ohio plant, making his rounds to arouse early workmen. Both went upstairs and found Cook's body lying across the bed.

Mrs. Cook asserts she had heard no revolver report during the night.

Cook's face was marked by powder burns, indicating that the weapon had been discharged at close range.

Cook had been a resident of Irondale for 10 years. He had not been in ill health and had been employed steadily at the sewer pipe plant. As a result authorities are mystified as to the motive.

Coroner A. L. Bell, of Jefferson county has been asked to investigate the case.

The body was removed to the D. N. M[illegible] an funeral home in Wellsville, for preparation for burial.

STREET REPAIR FUNDS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Balance of $7,853.67 "Starter" for 1927.

AUTO, GAS MONEY

Total of $6,742.81 Spent Last Year on Street Work.

Wellsville's auto license and gasoline tax funds, used exclusively for the repair of city streets, starts off the year with a gain of approximately $3,800 over the balance at the beginning of 1926, according to figures in the office of City Auditor Fred Eckfeld.

When the books were closed on business for 1926, the combined funds had a balance of $7,853.67, or a trifle more than was spent from both funds last year in street repair jobs.

The city received $5,253.05 from automobile licenses in 1926. Of this amount $3,732.24 was spent on repair work, leaving a balance of $1,520.81.

From the gasoline tax the city received $5,322 and spent $3,010.57 during the year, leaving a balance in this fund of $2,311.43.

The balance remaining from the two funds, consequently, is $3,832.24, which, combined with the balance from previous years with which the city started in 1926, $4,021.43, gives a total of $7,853.67 as a "starter" for 1927 repair projects.

ZELLERS' TRIAL FOR CONTEMPT IS CONTINUED

Alleged Dry Leader Sought to Intimidate Juror.

DAYTON, O., Jan. 6.—Trial of C. D. Zellers, formerly of East Liverpool, accused of contempt of court, as the result of a law suit against J. E. Watts, state dry officer, for $25,000, has been continued to January 31, by Judge Alfred McCray.

Zellers, who is the head of the Dayton branch of the Anti-Saloon league, is said to have instigated a raid at the home of V. R. Roehm, a juror hearing the case against Watts, for the purpose of intimidating him. The jury failed to reach a verdict after the raid on the Roehm home. Watts was sued by Laura Robinson, negress who alleged that she received injuries at the hands of Watts during a raid which resulted in the death of her unborn babe, and caused a serious operation.

She didn't know what was wrong!

No one had ever told her the reason people avoided her was simply her catarrhal breath. People don't speak of that. They just keep away.

Yet, if she had only known Hall's Catarrh Medicine she might have been saved years of loneliness. For Hall's brings relief—not only from the unpleasant effects of catarrh, but from catarrhal headaches—the throbbing, stuffed-up nasal and throat passages—catarrhal deafness.

FLORIDA STORM IS BLAMED FOR BRUTAL MURDER

Motive is Sought for Slaying at Hempstead, N. Y.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Harold F. Webster, confessed slayer of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Gallaway, committed the crime following a bitter quarrel over money lost in a Florida land deal, according to a theory advanced today by detectives who are seeking to establish a motive for the slaying.

Webster, a former real estate salesman in Miami, Fla., is said to have lost $5,000 of his own money and $1,000 of Mrs. Gallaway's in the deal, which collapsed because of the hurricane last fall. Detectives believe that she was dunning him for the money on Monday when he flew into a rage and beat her to death with an iron bar in the home of Mrs. Dell C. Bassett, her daughter.

Today Webster was in jail at Mineola, near here. He is being held for grand jury action tomorrow. A speedy indictment for first degree murder is expected.

Webster will plead self-defense. He insists his mother-in-law struck him and threatened to shoot him. His jaw is swollen and there are scratches on his hands.

His mother is standing by him, but his wife informed him that she "never wanted to see him again." Mrs. Webster is prostrated over her mother's tragic death.

GUARDS FIND NOOSE IN CELL OF M'DERMOTT

PAT DENIES IT

CANTON, O., Jan. 6.—Whether Patrick Eugene McDermott, convicted "key man" in the Mellett murder case contemplated suicide, or whether he was putting up a "bluff" is something which Supt. John Boyer, of the Stark county workhouse, is trying to determine today.

Guards at the workhouse went through McDermott's cell while he was in the "bull pen" late yesterday afternoon and found a noose which McDermott had fashioned out of one of his blankets.

Boyer questioned McDermott last night, and the convicted man said that he had no thought of committing suicide.

"I just made that 'ging' out of the blanket to hang on the bars of the door so that I could get a little more exercise," is the explanation which he made to Boyer.

McDermott claimed that his long imprisonment at the workhouse and the limited opportunity for exercise had made him feel "stale" and he had fashioned a ring or noose out of the blanket to enable him to get a little additional exercise to keep him in fit physical shape.

"I don't believe that Pat really thought of taking his own life," said Boyer this morning. "Whether he did really want to use that thing to help him get a little exercise or whether he was trying to buff us into believing that he wanted to end his life, is something I have not yet fully determined."

"However, we shall keep a close watch on him in the future. He is so closely guarded now that, even if he did want to commit suicide, the opportunities are so limited that he would not be able to accomplish any such end, especially if he chose hanging himself as the route to liberty."

NINE ARE HELD IN DEATH PLOTS

State Police Make Sensational Raids in Follansbee.

Nine men were arrested in a series of raids last midnight at Follansbee by state and Brooke county officials who charge the prisoners with membership in an alleged society believed responsible for several murders in the tri-state district, including the recent slaying of Dr. Dergo Delfino, who was found dead in his automobile near the tin mill town.

Besides a dozen or more major crimes this society is credited with the driving out of the county of numerous men through intimidation. Various hold-ups reported to the police and numerous others which were never officially reported to the officials were committed by this society, according to Brooke county officials.

Officials Wednesday night, for reasons they declared sufficient, declined to make public the names of the prisoners. They were lodged in the Brooke county jail at Wellsburg.

The Follansbee raid was the result of a story told Prosecuting Attorney Wilkins by a "squealer" in the blackhand organization. Wilkins spent the entire day behind closed doors with this man and the information was given the official with the promise that his name would never be mentioned in connection with the case—knowing full well the fate that would be his should it become known.

Two of the "higher-ups" escaped the dragnet thrown out by the raiding squads.

This society, according to Brooke county officials, is linked with the Steubenville underworld, which is notorious for its murders, robberies and other crimes. It is also connected with a similar organization at Avella, Pa.

The raids were the most severe blow given the "blackhand" organization in the tri-state district in many years. The raids were practically confined to the Italian colony of Follansbee.

The judges will give reasons on only one class each of cattle, sheep, hogs and draft horses.

A gold, a silver and a bronze medal will be awarded to the three highest scoring individuals. In 1923 Mrs. S. T. Weekley of Ritchie county was awarded the gold medal, while a year later J. C. Gibson of Preston county was the winner. S. M. Morrison from Lewis county won it in 1925. Edgar McLaughlin of Greenbrier county won the coveted medal in 1926.

In addition to the individual awards the winning county team will be given possession of the silver trophy for the coming year. Greenbrier county has succeeded in winning the trophy twice, while Mason and Lewis have each won it once. The team to first win it for the third time will retain permanent possession of it. DID CUSTER KILL HIMSELF?

Western Star, Coming to American, Tells of Massacre.

Did General Custer commit suicide at the Battle of the Little Big Horn?

"The question may never be answered," says Col. Tim McCoy, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer western star of "War Paint," to be shown today, Friday and Saturday at the American theatre, "but many Indians and a few whites have concluded that he did die by his own hand rather than to fall into the clutches of the Sioux and Cheyennes."

McCoy, said to be the greatest living authority on the North American Indian, has made continuous inquiries for years regarding the massacre and assisted other army officers in their investigation of the massacre.

"It is a fact," says McCoy, "that neither Captain Keogh nor Custer were scalped by the Indian victors. The other one hundred and seventy-two men were scalped. This has given rise to the belief by some that both Custer and Keogh may have died by their own hands, it being a well known fact that Indians will not scalp a suicide.

"I have heard it said that Custer was not scalped because of the great reverence in which he was held by the red men. This I hardly believe to be true since the scalp of a great white soldier would have been envied by the majority of warriors. Yet there may have been some reason why their bodies were not mutilated. Possibly they may have been overlooked."

McCoy says that less than a dozen Indians were killed in the battle. This small loss he believes to be due to the fact that many of the soldiers, in their hurry to fire jammed the breech-locks of their rifles, thus rendering them useless. The Indians were armed with more powerful and more improved weapons and the whites were at a further disadvantage of shooting down hill at a moving target. This tends to make the marksman overshoot his target.

DONAHEY URGES FRANCHISE AND EXCISE TAX BOOST

Outlines Views Concerning Public Utilities Rates.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Enactment of legislation providing for increases in franchise and excise taxes and for placing an excise tax on motor transportation companies operating as public utilities in Ohio is urged by Governor Vic Donahey in his initial message to the present Ohio legislature. The message is on file today with the senate and house clerks.

The governor recommends these revenue increases to be provided for in order to insure "a more fair and equitable distribution of the tax burden" in the Buckeye state.

The governor's message, the first of a series which he proposes to submit to the legislature within the next few weeks, deals with his views concerning contemplated legislation providing for "the proper regulation of public utilities rates and service" and for solution of "the problem of readjusting our system of revenues and expenditures on a fair and adequate basis."

Places Blame for Deficit.

Donahey charged legislators who served during recent sessions with being responsible for the deficit in the state treasury and asserted that it is the legislature's "task to correct the error."

"The fullest exchanges of advice and counsel" between the governor and legislators, "in the hope that our work may be founded on vision, patriotism and constructive statesmanship," was endorsed by the governor.

The senate was requested by Donahey to take prompt action, "either affirmatively or negatively," relative to his appointments of three members of the state utilities commission whose names will be sent to the senate for confirmation. The governor announced that, after consultation with the new commission, he proposes to submit concrete recommendations to the legislature dealing with "needed statutory changes in methods of operation and procedure of the public utilities commission.'

Takes Assembly To Task.

The governor stated that State Auditor Joseph Tracy and Director of Finance W. E. Baker had informed him that, unless receipts are increased in the meantime, there will be a deficit of approximately $4,000,000 in the state's general revenue fund at the end of the current fiscal biennium, June 30, next.

"Thereafter, the normal expenditures of the state government will exceed receipts of the state treasury, under existing revenue laws, about $8,000,000 annually," Donahey told the legislators.

Despite the repeal of direct state tax levies by the Ohio legislature in 1923, thereby reducing the state's revenues more than $10,000,000 a year, the governor declared, "the treasury would not have been embarrassed if the legislature had not subsequently made appropriations for expeditures in excess of the anticipated income of the treasury, including the appropriation of some $6,500,000 over my veto, and then reduced corporation franchise taxes several million dollars a year."

Suggests Two Remedies.

Asserting that the last legislature "appropriated funds far in excess of the anticipated receipts of the treasury," the governor declared that "the unlawfully created deficit we are facing must be overcome by one of two available methods:

"First—Appropriations on your part within the expected income of the treasury under the present forms and rates of indirect taxes, and the elimination, or curtailment, of many state activities; or

"Second—The raising of additional revenues to meet the present and ever-growing activities of the state government."

The governor urged the legislators not to "take a backward step in the important services for which most of the state funds are expended."

He submitted a table of proposed increases in excise and franchise taxes estimated to raise $10,786,528 additional revenue for the state annually.

Of this amount, $9,000,000 was the increase anticipated each year if the legislature will raise the domestic corporation fee on outstanding capital, as provided for in the Dempsey act.

Governor Donahey announced his intention of transmitting to the legislature soon the executive budget proposing expenditures totaling approximately $55,000,000 for state governmental activities during the 18 months ending Dec. 31, 1928, the budget being based on the assumption that the legislators will provide for additional indirect taxes as suggested by the governor.

"If you do not increase revenues, the budget must be cut about 20 per cent in order to keep appropriations within anticipated revenues,' said the governor. "In any event, I trust you will not make appropriations in excess of the anticipated receipts of the treasury as did the 86th general assembly," the governor's message reads.

The governor's budget total of $54,486,550, represents a reduction by Finance Director Baker and State Budget Commissioner Merlin Brenneman of $16,913,932 from requests for legisqlative appropriations, aggregating $71,400,491, submitted by the heads of the various state departments and institutions.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6. — Industrial stocks moved through an irregular course in the early trading today. Selling orders for the industrial shares and high priced specialties flooded the market in the first period, resulting in moderate losses, while short covering in Baldwin and other speculative leaders produced a firm tone in some sections of the list.

The shadow of the Mexican disorders hung over a portion of the oil and copper shares. Pan-American Petroleum B reached a new low on the movement, and American Smelting was freely offered by the professionals who have been clinging tenaciously to the short side of the market. The motor shares held their ground in the face of fairly heavy profit taking and short selling, though Mack Trucks declined to a new low on the move.

The bulls received a concession in the marking down of call loan rates to 4¾ per cent. Funds were available in the outside market as low as 4 per cent, according to market reports. The railroad traffic figures were favorable, showing a gain of 71,539 car loadings in the week of December 25, as compared with the same month last year. Buying in Baldwin Locomotive on a new 4-point rise was attributed to Chicago speculators.

Recoveries were under way in most sections of the market in the second hour.

WOMAN IS SHOT TO DEATH IN OHIOAN'S AUTO

Coroner Says Bullet Was Fired at Close Range.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 6.—Circumstances surrounding the murder last night of Mrs. Sherley Glardon, 42, while she was riding in an automobile with Peter Brown, Hillsboro, O., contractor, were to be closely investigated by detectives here today.

Brown, being held pending further inquiry into the killing, declared to police that three bandits in another automobile stopped them near Hartwell, suburb, and that Mrs. Glardon was killed by one of a fusillade of bullets fired by the bandits when he attempted to drive away.

Coroner S. C. Swing announced, however, that the bullet which pierced the back of the woman's head, was fired at close range, and that powder burns in the wound, and the burned collar of her coat, convinced him that the fatal shot could not have been fired through the rear of the fleeing car.

Brown had stated that the bullet came through the rear of his automobile as he was "stepping on the gas" to get away from the bandit trio. He showed police a bullet hole in the back of the car to substantiate his story.

According to John Glardon, the murdered woman's husband, the two had separated about 10 days ago because of Brown's alleged attention to Mrs. Glardon.

Brown was said to have stated that Mrs. Glardon's last words were "don't you dare touch me" to one of the bandits, who jumped on the running board of his machine and tried to prevent the escape.

Brown declared that the man struck him on the head with a revolver and exhibited a lacerated scalp in furtherance of that portion of his story.

The contractor said that as the man fell from the running board, the bandits opened fire and that at least three shots were fired.

The scene of the murder was some distance from Newtown, another suburb, where Tuesday night Miss Ethel Kendall, pretty 23-year-old Latonia, girl, was forcibly taken from the machine of her escort and held in captivity for nearly two hours before she was freed by three men.

Stage Last Act Of Bitter Quarrel Over Bigger Navy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—With party lines smashed and Republican leaders at odds with President Coolidge, the house today prepared to stage the last act of its present melo-dramatic quarrel over demands for a bigger American navy.

An appropriation for preliminary work on three battle cruisers' a $7,000,000 boost in the air corps allowance and $100,000 to start construction of a giant dirigible comprised the program of the "big navy" forces.

Two Cross-state Highways Will be Known as 17 and 18

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Highway Director George Schlessinger today announced the official designation of the two cross-state highways, known as state routes 17 and 18. Number 17, also, is known as the Benjamin Franklin highway.

Police Say Suicide Pact Caused Two Deaths in Akron

AKRON, O., Jan. 6.—A suicide pact was responsible for the death of Fred Hess, a train dispatcher, and his wife, Gladys, police declared here today when it was learned that the husband had made a dying statement that Mrs. Hess had shot him and then killed herself.

Hess staggered to the street Christmas eve with a bullet in his head. His wife's body was found in their quarters. Beside it lay a note saying: "Bury us together."

The dispatcher remained unconscious until after an operation yesterday to remove the bullet. He rallied later and declared:

"My wife shot me," then died.

$10,000 BLAZE IN WHEELING

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 6.—Fire of undetermined origin today destroyed the copper shop of the H. Bett's plant here. Loss is estimated at $10,000.

Senate Protests

Argonne, and a mine sweeper, the Quail, in Nicaraguan waters, with a total fighting complement of some 3,000 men, marines nad bluejackets.

This force, the state department believes, will be sufficient to account not only for the safety of American and foreign lives and property but also to prevent the Sacasa Liberals from seizing Managua, the capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Abandonment by the state department of the evacation of American women and last pretense of neutrality in the Nicaraguan civil war—reflected by the lifting of the embargo on arms to the hard-pressed Diaz forces, and the landing of additional American marines to frustrate the advances of the Liberal revolutionists under Sacasa—aroused a veritable storm of opposition in the senate today.

"This is intervention," said Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. "Under the circumstances and conditions existing in Nicaragua it is nothing else."

"It is an act of war," declared Senator Norris (R.) of Nebraska, while Senator Wheeler (D.) of Montana, asserted that "the mask is now off the state department's policy." Wheeler has a resolution pending demanding the immediate recall of the marines from Nicaragua.

Move Against Sacasa.

The state department, is was learned, has given Admiral Latimer, the American commander, blanket authority to close the ports at Puerto Cabezas, Sacasa's capital, and Rio Grande bar, on the east coast, to the storing or movement of Liberal army supplies. With Bluefields also under American naval control as a neutral zone, the entire east coast is about bottled up so far as Sacasa is concerned.

This bottling up process of the ports will effectually prevent Sacasa receiving any arms and ammunition from Mexican sources, it is believed, while the lifting of the embargo will give Diaz access to unlimited American supplies.

Unless Sacasa is able to break the bottle somewhere, it probably means his revolution against the American-backed Diaz will die of strangulation.

American naval forces now occupy his capital, Puerto Cabezas, and have declared it a neutral zone. They similarly occupy Managua, the Diaz capital, more marines having been landed yesterday.

Kellogg Faces Rough Time.

Secretary of State Kellogg appeared to be in for a rough time when he appears before the senate foreign relations committee to explain his policy. There were even intimations today that open demands for his resignation will be made.

Democrats Support Protest.

There appeared considerable Democratic backing of Senator Wheeler's position. If the Democrats back his resolution for withdrawal of the marines solidly enough it might pass, for the insurgents are with them.

"The embargo should be restored," said Senator Copeland (D) of New York. "The United States should not be put in the position of encouraging war in a friendly state."

"It is an act of war," said Senator Norris, the insurgent's leader referring to the lifting of the embargo.

Wheeler announced he would introduce a new resolution today, demanding a senate investigation into all American concessions and bankers' loans in Central and South America.

Meanwhile, the state department preserved silence.

Senate Filibuster Held as Club Over Maternity Measure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A well organized filibuster was held as a club over the Sheppard-Townsend maternity bill today as its proponents sought to secure its enactment by the senate.

Led by Senator James A. Reed (D) of Missouri, foes of the bill organized into a bloc for the purpose of bringing the senate's legislative machine to a standstill until the measure is shelved. A similar filibuster blocked the bill's enactment five years ago and it languished in a pigeon-hole ever since. Reed was aided in plotting the filibuster by Senators Phipps (R) of Colorado, and Bingham (R) of Connecticut.

Senate Committee To Probe Southern Political Charges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Investigations into the sale of patronage in the south and the alleged disfranchisement of negroes were ordered today by the senate judiciary sub-committee.

While recommending both investigations, the committee disagreed upon whether to conduct them singly or together. This question, it was indicated, will be left for the full committee to decide.

LAUDS SOAP, WATER, AS BEAUTY AIDS

Plenty of soap and water—just that and nothing more—is the advice Greta Garbo, beautiful screen star, gives to those who would be fair. "In my country, Sweden," she says, "we do not use cold cream so much as you in America. It sounds strange to American ears, I know, but a good soap, plenty of water, and a scrubbing brush are the best cosmetics."

Senator Copeland

Mayor of Ann Arbor.

He has served as mayor, president of the board of education and member of the city park board of Ann Arbor and was a member of the Michigan tuberculosis board of trustees.

In 1903 he became the president of the National Medical association and was called to New York City where he was for ten years the dean of the New York Homeopathic Medical college and head of the Flower hospital.

Finally he was appointed by the then Mayor Hylan as commissioner of health and president of the city's board of health. Previously he had served on the ambulance board by appointment of the late Mayor Gaynor. His work in these lines attracted such attention that he was selected by the Democrats to contest for a United States senate seat with former Senator William M. Calder whom he defeated by a plurality of 281,246 votes. He has served almost four years of his term as senator.

Member of Methodist Church.

In the senate he is a member of the committees of commerce, District of Columbia, education and labor, immigration and naval affairs. At Washington he lives in the Wardman Park hotel with Mrs. Copeland, while his only son, R. S. Coeland Jr., is a student at Phillips Exeter academy in New England. The three recently returned from a visit to their summer home at Sufferin, N. Y.

During his college days Senator Copeland became a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon. Later he took post graduate courses in England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Belgium.

From his early manhood Senator Copeland has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. For eight years from 1900 to 1908 he was treasurer of the National Board of Control of the Enworth League. In 1896 he was a delegate to the World's Home congress at London and four years later in the same city he was a representative to the Methodist Ecumenical congress.

He was secretary of the Council of National Defense in 1917. He also organized Hospital Unit N, when the United States entered the World war.

Newspaper Contributor.

For several years Senator Copeland has contributed daily in newspapers throughout the country articles on health. As a result he has qualified as a member of the Newspaper Club of New York, the Hundred Year Club of Chicago and National Press Club of Washington.

As an author he has to his credit a text book, "Refraction," prepared from 1899 to 1905, and "The Scientific Reasonableness of Homeopathy," written in 1909.

He is also a member of the New York Athletic Club, the National Democratic Club, the Transportation Club, the Sons of American Revolution, Knights Templar, Mystic Shrine, Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, honorary member of the Stationary Engineers' local, Knights of the Maccabees Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the American Public Health association, University of Michigan Club and the Michigan Society of New York. Of several of these he has been president and vice-president.

Because of his close relationship to the political activities of Governor Al Smith, probable candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination next year, his coming to East Liverpool at this time will be of unusual interest. In political circles it is hinted that Copeland may be a compromise candidate for first or second place on the ticket.

New school buildings to be erected by the government of Kenya Colony, South Africa, will have a total cost of $1,500,000.

COBB, SPEAKER ASK LANDIS TO CLEAR NAMES

Their Attorneys Will go to Chicago on Saturday.

LEONARD CHARGES

Hint Legal Action in Event Request is Refused.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, through their attorneys, will ask Judge Landis Saturday to clear their names of the smirch caused when Hubert "Dutch" Leonard recently charged that the two former baseball pilots had participated in a crooked game.

William H. Boyd, counsel for Speaker, declared today that he and James O. Murfin, of Detroit, representing Cobb, had an appointment to meet the commissioner in Chicago at which time the entire affair would be "threshed out and organized baseball given a chance to absolve the two men without resorting to legal action."

Boyd said that this did not mean that an ultimatum would be served on Landis and yet he implied that the possibility of legal action will remain unless Speaker and Cobb are given a clean bill.

Speaker has not yet decided whether hee will appear at the conference. Cobb is in Chicago.

Light Vote in Morgantown Election.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 6.—Apathy on the part of the voters marked the election for city councilmen and school commissioners here today. Poll attendants remarked upon the light vote cast, despite the fact that party issues were sharply drawn.

FIFTH ARREST MADE IN RUM CLEAN-UP HERE

Lonza Armond, or Lorenza Harmon, Goes to Jail.

Roy Green Released; Two Others are Held.

Lonza Armond, whose correct name municipal court officials claim is Lorenza Harmon, is being held in the city jail today upon an affidavit signed by Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, charging him with the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors.

Harmon, for whom police have been searching for about five days, was arrested on Sixth street last night by Patrolman William Lister. He entered a plea of not guilty when he faced Judge Hanley this morning and was committed to jail pending a hearing. He is represented by Attorney G. Jay Clark.

Harmon was the last of the five men against whom liquor violation charges were preferred by police on New Year's Day, the other four having been taken into custody early in the week. He is charged with having sold intoxicating liquor to "one Mike Davis" on December 14, last.

Bradley Burns, who is also charged with a sale, will face Judge Hanley tomorrow morning. He has been in jail since his arrest last Saturday afternoon, having entered a plea of not guilty to the charge last Monday.

Roy Green, who was charged with possession of intoxicants, and who was fined $100 and costs, was at liberty today after he had paid a part of his fine and arranged to liquidate the balance.

Relatives of Harry Daher, who is under a $300 fine for possessing liquor, arrived here from Pennsylvania today to arrange for his release. Judge Hanley said yesterday that Daher would be committed to the Canton workhouse unless his fine was paid. His father and friends were to confer with Hanley this afternoon in an effort to obtain his release.

Hankow Situation Reported Critical; Women Leave City

SHANGHAI, Jan. 6.—A most critical situation prevailed at Hankow today where Chinese mobs swarmed over the British concession, despite repeated official assurances by the Cantonese authorities of protection for foreign lives and property.

It was reported that heavy street fighting has broken out there.

The British consul general has ordered the evacuation of all British women and children, and three boatloads of these refugees were hurrying to Shanghai today. Although the American consul has not yet ordered the evacuation of American women and children, many of them have left the British concession and are also enroute to Shanghai.

The American legation at Peking was reported as not unduly alarmed for the safety of Americans in Hankow inasmuch as Admiral Hough of the American Asiatic fleet is at the scene with five American warships for the protection of American interests. Other vessels were enroute to Hankow today.

THE BUCKEYE NEWS

No. 1. January 6, 1927. Vol. 1

Mr. Krug over at the Review-Tribune office, says he knows how to run a newspaper, and we're no exception to that rule.

But we can't afford a newspaper of our own. Besides, we're too busy with the Lumber business.

So we have arranged for this little corner in the Review-Tribune and we're going to devote it to the news of our business.

We may not talk about Lumber all the time. Maybe some of you East Liverpool folks may get your names into our "newspaper" occasionally.

Also, we may decide to write poetry or high brow editorials.

But we'll at least try to be interesting and we hope you'll watch for The Buckeye News each week.

There are lots of things around our place of business that we'd like to tell you about from time to time. New merchandise arriving. New ideas. Comments from customers. Things that we believe would interest you a lot more than if we tried to tell you all the time about what a wonderful establishment we have here.

In other words, we want to make this space of some service to you ,and we wish you'd advise us from week to week—criticise or commend as you think we deserve. We'll need your help and "moral support."

And while we're getting The Buckeye News ready each week, just remember that we're also going to give you the best Lumber service we know how to deliver.

That's the big aim of this institution, always.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

FOUR MEN FLEE LONDON, O., JAIL

LONDON, O., Jan. 5. — Edward Blaugher, Madison county's new sheriff, today was searching the county for trace of four prisoners who escaped from the county jail. The men used an iron bar to drill a hole through the prison wall and let themselves down a 30-foot drop by use of a garden hose.

The men who escaped are: Everett Elliott, indicted for attempting to wreck a train; Garnet McIntire, charged with criminal assault; Virgil Mays, charged with criminal assault, and Logan Nichols, charged with chicken stealing.

Joe Giehl, serving a third sentence for violation of the liquor law, escaped from the city jail Dec. 22.

Two prisoners found in the jail by Sheriff Blaugher, declared they knew nothing of the delivery. One of the men, Henry Low, the sheriff reported, is too corpulent and so was prevented from crawling through the 15-inch square hole, while the other, Frank Fisher, is a cripple.

The men had been given the freedom of the cell block and were not locked in cells, the sheriff reported.

Thousands have got relief

SLEEPLESS WITH PAIN OF RHEUMATISM

Now sleeps well and can work with ease

"I could not sleep or do my work, but now I sleep well, walk and do my work with ease. I used Sloan's Liniment only once and it relieved me of my pain. It is just wonderful. I shall never be without it."

This is only one letter but it is typical of thousands that the makers of Sloan's have received, testifying to the amazing relief that Sloan's gives to every kind of muscular pain.

Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up the bodily forces to get rid of the trouble that is causing the pain.

No need to rub, it's the medicine itself that does the work. Just pat it on. Instantly it sends the fresh, healing blood tingling through the sick tissues—and the pain simply has to go. So clean and easy to use, too. Get a bottle. All druggists—35 cents.

BOWDLER GOES TO JAIL CELL

Ulyatt and Lawyer Begin Moundsville Penitentiary Terms.

Refused an application for a 15-day stay of execution, Arthur E. Bowdler, former East Liverpool attorney, and Gordon D. Ulyatt, his business associate in the Real Estate Guaranty Mortgage company of Wheeling, today were in the Moundsville penitentiary where they will serve terms of five years each, imposed by the Ohio county circuit courts for violation of the West Virginia state speculative securities act.

Counsel for the two defendants who surrendered Tuesday, asked that an additional stay of execution be granted in order that the prisoners might close their business affairs. Mrs. Ulyatt appeared in court with her husband.

Prosecuting Attorney A. C. Schiffler opposed the stay of execution.

Commitment papers for the prisoners, who also were fined $5,000, were being prepared by Lionel L. Nightengale, clerk of the Ohio county circuit court.

EARL FELTON SCOUT CHIEF

Earl Felton, Lisbon, has been appointed county scout executive, succeeding Harry Wilson, who resigned about six weeks ago to go to Florida, it was announced today.

Felton has been at the head of a Scout troop in Lisbon for several months. He has been acting executive since Wilson resigned.

They try now to hide behind roll top desks, screens, bookcases and other improvised barricades of furniture and stacked-up volumes of the Congressional Record — but pooh! nothing will stop one of these confirmed haunters of the halls of national legislation short of a solid, permanent partition and a thick oak door, locked on the inside and watched by a resolute secretary with a sharp eye to distinguish between an uninfluential "poor nut" and a substantial constituent who packs a bunch of votes in his pocket.

It may be a cold blooded view to take but it's a practical one.

Washington is level full of unfortunates who have or think they have just claims against the government which they can't get acted on.

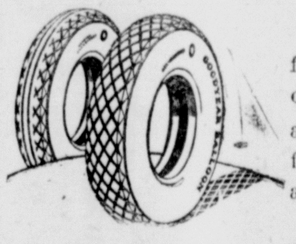

They date well back toward the time of the Revolution. Any number of them mean nothing to the present generation of lawmakers. They might as well be dropped, because it's a dead certainty nothing ever will be done about them.

Generally the individual who persists in pleading one of these forgotten, hopeless causes finally goes more or less loco, from disappointment and a sense of real or fancied wrongs he's suffered. Then, though it's too bad, he becomes a pest of the first water.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—No other public man is so pestered as a member of the house of representatives. The president is the shining mark for visitors in the capital but they're carefully sorted out before they get to him. They're kept moving. The most important caller is allowed only so much time, generally no more than two or three minutes. When it's up, in comes the next man, crowding the first one out automatically.

CAPITOL DOME.

Ordinary folk pass along in line, livestock in a packing house chute. It there's any delay, there's somebody to punch 'em.

Each lesser executive has his antechamber, with a bouncer on guard.

To reach a senator in his private den it's necessary to pass his secretary's inspection in an outer waiting room.

A representative's office is wide open to the public.

With the exception of about half a dozen representatives in key positions, like the floor leaders and chairmen of the most important committees, members of the lower house of congress have just one room apiece in which to transact all their official business.

Walking along the corridor of the house office building, you look right in and see whether or not any given representative is on the job, and if he is, you're at full liberty to enter and bother him all you please, stay as long as you like and waste as much of this time as suits your own convenience. Being a politician, and therefore afraid to offend anybody, he won't be in a position to show the slightest sign of resentment.

As is to be expected, congressmen are the victims of cranks of every imaginable variety. They have grievances or they want something from the government or they're urging legislation of one sort or another and they can and do talk on these subjects interminably.

Representatives have been known to flee their offices and dictate their correspondence to their stenographers in their automobiles, parked around the capitol, to escape these persecutors.

Look at My Hair

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

Countless women ask me how I developed such a marvelous head of hair. It is thick, silky, lustrous. Every year it becomes more luxuriant. I have never had falling hair or dandruff and never a touch of gray.

I owe that Hair to the genius of French experts. They have given me from time to time the best hair helps discovered. In late years I've combined them. Now I offer them all to you, on every toilet counter, under the name of Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth.

My Hair Youth is concentrated. I apply it with an eyedropper directly to the scalp. There it instantly combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It tones and stimulates the scalp. My glorious hair is the simple result of that daily application. For years and years it has brought like results to my beautiful friends on the stage.

Every girl and woman owes herself a knowledge of Hair Youth. If you watch its effects for a day or two you will never go without it. And it may add to you or keep for you a priceless beauty item.

Blanket Absolution For Players In "Expose" Predicted

Diamond Stars Deny Risberg's Charges Before Judge Landis

Preponderance of Rebuttal Testimony Offered by Collins, Cobb, Rowland, Schalk, Bush and Others Makes General Acquittal Almost Certainty; "Swede" Sticks to Story.

By Davis J. Walsh.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Blanket absolution for players, coaches and managers, past and present, who were named in "Swede" Risberg's strictly personal expose of major league baseball, was deemed inevitable today in spite of the fact that a further and final airing of the blacklisted player's charges still was to be accounted for in Judge Landis' somewhat semi-public inner office tomorrow. The preponderance of rebuttal testimony taken yesterday made a general acquittal of all concerned almost a certainty.

It was offered by Eddie Collins, among the greatest players of the modern generation; Ray Schalk and Donie Bush, Chicago and Pittsburgh managers; Ty Cobb, the great Georgian whose name has remained under something of a cloud as a result of unsustained charge that he engaged in a betting coup; Clarence Rowland, American league umpire, and, in fact, all who were named in Risberg's now famous process known as "sloughing" ball games. Every one called to the stand entered emphatic and, in some cases, convincing denials of the allegations.

Risberg Sticks to Story.

There was one exception and it was furnished by Charles "Swede" Risberg, who stuck to his story that in September, 1917, the Chicago White Sox all and severally had contributed $45 each to a pool he alleges was raised to reward Detroit for having "sloughed" a series to the Sox earlier in the month. Nor did he retreat from his position when witness followed witness with almost monotonous repetition of testimony to the effect that the pool was a reward to Detroit pitchers for winning a series from Boston.

He was all alone, too, when he declared that Chick Gandil, Joe Jackson, Happy Felsch and himself had misplayed batters in order to slough a series to Detroit in 1919 by way of further reward and his isolation was heightened by the last testimony of the day, which was furnished by George "Buck" Weaver, dropped from baseball with Risberg and others as a result of the 1919 world series enquiry.

Weaver stated that he had refused to contribute to the fund, that he heard no talk of sloughing by Risberg and Gandil either in 1917 or 1919 or at any time and that he had not observed any misplayings of batters by any member of the club. He supported Risberg only in the matter of saying the fund was represented as a gift to the Detroit club and not its pitchers.

Await Chick Gandil.

Yet Risberg, something of a heroic figure as he fought grimly alone against the opposition's weight of numbers, is not entirely without hope that he may yet make a showing of his tale of piracy in the club house.

According to present understanding, Chick Gandil, key man with Risberg in the alleged conspiracy, was due to arrive from El Paso this morning and will be one of those heard tomorrow. It might be that he will make himself heard today but if he does, he will go contrary to prevailing custom among witnesses summoned. So steadfast have they been in refusing to discuss the case out of "court' that the inference has been taken that all of them were warned against promiscuous talking by Judge Landis.

However, an order from Landis means less than nothing in Gandil's gay young life. This pair is not exactly suited to the role of room mates now or at any time henceforth.

Bill James Summoned.

Gandil may very well prove of great aid and comfort to Risberg. Another possibility is Bill James, who seems to have handled the business end of the pool for Detroit. If both defendants and accuser are to be believed, James was a very active young man about that time. He wasn't present yesterday but he has been duly summoned and, if he arrives in time for tomorrow's hearing or at all, he will be grilled like a thin steak.

MILWAUKEE PUG UNABLE TO FIGHT

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Joey Sanger, the clever Milwaukee featherweight, will not engage in his scheduled ten-round bout with Henry Leonard at White City on Monday night, it was announced today. Local boxing commission physicians examined Sanger's injured nose and reported he is unfit to fight.

An opponent for Leonard, to sub for Joey, has not yet been named by Promoter Coulon.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Shuffle Callahan, Chicago Heights' slugging truck driver who has achieved considerable fame as a knockout artist, has entered serious training for his "grudge" fight against Wolcott Langford, local negro middleweight, scheduled for Jan. 14.

LANDIS' TRIAL RESEMBLES OLD GRADS REUNION

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.— If the famous baseball luminaries attending Commissioner Landis' special invitation affair in his chambers here are downhearted over the charges brought against them by Charles "Swede" Risberg, there was nothing in their demeanor or conversation to indicate the fact.

It was more like a homecoming celebration of old grads than a group of famous ball players whose brilliant records of achievement on the diamond were threatened to be wiped out by the suspicions of scandal. The famous old song, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," would not have sounded out of place, considering the happy mood of the accused.

Even the great Ty Cobb, who has considerable more to worry about than the new list of men placed under a cloud by the tales of Risberg, managed to be quite jovial. In fact, Ty was the life of the party.

"Well, well, if it isn't old Eddie Collins," said Cobb grinning broadly. "Glad to see you, Eddie. Understand you're one of us now. Welcome to the fold, old kid. Our membership is getting to be quite exclusive."

While Cobb, Collins and others were chatting affably, a touching scene took place. Buck Weaver, one of the ousted "Black Sox," moved timidly toward Ty Cobb. He and Cobb had not met since the famous world series scandal of 1919, the storm that carried young Weaver out of baseball.

Buck was reported to have accepted the invitation of Landis partly on the theory he would substantiate the story told by Risberg. Buck was obviously self-conscious as he moved toward his former mates.

"Put her there, Buck. How are you, boy? Haven't seen you since 1920," said Cobb warmly. The others were as cordial in their greetings to Weaver. The latter was quite moved by the welcome. Later he slightly touched a handkerchief to his eyes.

There is considerable sympathy among ball players and fans hereabouts for Weaver. They feel that in a great measure he was the victim of circumstances, combined with the indiscreet but not dishonest follies of extreme youth. Buck was a very young man when the world series scandal carried him into baseball oblivion. He is fighting for reinstatement.

There was little serious discussion among the assembled players. They seemed certain that no fair minded judge and public would accept the word of a discredited player against their own good words. The banter continued throughout the session. One wag caused an uproar when he asked aloud:

FARRAR VICTOR OVER WEBBER

One of the flashiest three-cushion billiard exhibitions of the season here was staged last night at the Academy parlors when Cleo Farrar defeated W. C. Webber, 25 to 11.

Farrar contributed a high run of eight.

R. White and H. Bennett are scheduled to clash tonight.

PAOLINO MEETS HANSEN FIRST

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Paolino, the Spanish heavyweight, will make his American ring debut here on Feb. 7 in a 10-round bout with Knute Hansen, the giant Dane from Wisconsin who outpointed Monte Munn recently. Announcement that the match had been arranged was made by Jess McMahon, Madison Square Garden matchmaker.

WELTER CHAMP GOES TO COAST

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of the world, was today enroute to California where he will fight several battles in preparation for the opening of the outdoor season in the east and middlewest. Mickey expects to be a busy champion this summer and expressed himself as anxious to keep in the best possible condition. While in California, he will meet among others Leo Lomski, one of the best middleweights on the Pacific slope.

HARVEY HENDRICK, purchased by the Brooklyn Dodgers from the New Orleans club of the Southern Association at the close of last season, has two chances to come through as a regular for Manager Robinson. Hendrick was playing first for the Southerners when purchased, but Uncle Robbie then had in mind using him as an outfielder. Within the last few weeks he has parted with both Zack Wheat, outfielder, and Jack Fournier, first baseman. Now Hendrick is in line for either job, filling in where he'll fit best.

HARVEY HENDRICK.

Hendrick's career is a bit unusual. Was 23 when Memphis gave him his first real tryout. Played with Chattanooga in 1921, was drafted by Red Sox in 1922 and released to Galveston. Recalled in fall and traded to Yanks. Was waived to Cleveland in 1925 and farmed to Providence. Sold to New Orleans last spring.

PARAGONS QUIT COUNTY LEAGUE

Will Probably Cite Reasons at Conference Sunday.

Announcement of the resignation of the East Palestine Paragons from the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball league probably will be made at the meeting of league managers and officers Sunday afternoon in the Hostetter hotel, Lisbon.

Resignation of the club, it is understood, will follow the cancellation of games scheduled for the week with the Wellsville team.

The down river aggregation was slated to play at East Palestine Tuesday night and the two were billed again for tonight at Wellsville.

The management of the club, notifying the Wellsville club of the cancellation, announced that East Palestine is "out of the league." Reasons for the action have not yet been made public.

The Paragons had been making a good showing thus far, having won two and lost two for a .500 standing in the circuit.

Lisbon last night went into a tie with Salineville for fifth place (if East Palestine is not considered), as a result of a victory at Columbiana. The county seaters turned the Boosters back by the count of 36 to 28, both teams using their regular lineups.

Two contests are on the boards for tonight. Damascus will play at Salem and Columbiana will make its appearance at Lisbon.

The final game of the week will bring Salineville here for its first half return match with the Elks.

but it is conservatively estimated that 4,500,000 cars were turned out in the United States in 1926. When production records were broken in 1925 with a total of 4,336,271 cars, few of the leaders in the industry were sufficiently well informed or so optimistic as to predict that a new record could bet set up during the succeeding twelve months. On the contrary, there was more than ever of that old talk about the saturation point having been reached, and that the time was at hand when production must slow down.

However, for the first eleven months of 1926 motor production totaled 4,272,000 cars, which was only 64,000 less than the total for the entire preceding record-breaking year, and it is predicted that the December production will reach at least 225,000, which will set the present year's record at approximately 4,500,000.

Perhaps the feature of the year has been the increased production of General Motors. Three years ago the Ford factories turned out approximately 2,000,000 cars as compared with 1,300,000 for all other manufacturers. In 1925 the Ford production was about the same, but competitors had increased their output to more than 2,300,000. This change is accentuated in the figures for the year just closed, Ford production having dropped to about 1,600,000 cars, while General Motors alone has equalled that output, and other companies have turned out approximately 1,300,000 cars during 1926.

Shop Equipment Exhibit.

One of the new and important features of the forthcoming Automobile Show and one of the especial interest to the public, will be the shop equipment exhibit.

"Practically every device developed for the speeding up of automotive service will be on view," it is announced, "and much of it will be hooked up to power, thus permitting the actual operations and results to be carefully studied. With the tremendous increase in the number of motor cars in use, the demand for service has increased proportionately. When repairs or replacements are needed they are demanded in the shortest possible time. To turn work out in the number of hours that used to be measured by days has been made possible only by the development of special service equipment."

The replacement of brake lining is cited as one illustration. Under old conditions it was regarded as a fast piece of work if such a job on all four wheels of a car could be finished in a day, and two or three men were required to do it. With modern machinery one man can do it in a few hours. With service station labor at $1.50 an hour, or more, the customer can appreciate the virtue of the new equipment. Grinding the valves and removing the deposits of carbon from the cylinders was likewise an all-day job under old conditions that can now be done in half the time, or less. A worn bearing or crankshaft no longer means the virtual disassembling of a car, for the motor is left in its place and the repair is completed in a fraction of the time formerly required.

Air compressors that were formerly used only to inflate tires are now used to paint and wash cars, and both these operations have been speeded up greatly. For instance a car can been washed in ten minutes, and a hand-washing process anywhere from good job made of it, whereas by the an hour to two hours was required and the job was frequently but an indifferent one.

The electric drill has eliminated hand labor, which was more costly and less satisfactory, and hydraulic presses have replaced the sledgehammer, performing faster and cleaner work, without any danger of injuring parts adjacent to those under repair.

Make Customers Happy.

Nothing is so irritating to an automobile owner as to be compelled to take his car to a service station and then have it tarry there interminably. It is irritating not only because he wants the use of his car within the minimum space of time—or a little quicker!—but because he knows how the bills mount up with a stiff hourly rate for labor.

Consequently all the advances that are being made in the maintenance field, which means more economical car operation, greater freedom from trouble, and a material reduction in the time a car must be elaid up for adjustments, replacements, or a general overhauling, will go far toward making the customers happy and keeping them in that frame of mind. And keeping the customers happy is a big part of the automobile business today, as it is of every other business.

One thing will be made apparent at the Grand Central Palace during the next ten days, and that is that Secretary Hoover's standardization ideas have not laid hold of the automotive industry as yet. There has been no concerted move to effect uniformity in the size of cars. For instance, there will be on exhibition sedans that vary from a monster with a wheel base of 150 inches to a midget of 100 inches, and there will be similar variations in size of practically all the other types of cars. But for all of them it is claimed that they are better cars, with more refinements, than have ever been shown before. Also it is said that the manufacturers and their designers believe that the new models represent about the last word in automobile construction.

Coincident with the National Automobile Show will be the meeting in New York City of the World Motor Transport Congress, sponsored by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. More than 600 delegates from foreign countries, including manufacturers, engineers, and dealers, will be in attendance, and from one country at least will come representatives of that important person mentioned heretofore—the customer. Union des Vehicules, the French organization of commercial car owners, is sending two delegates and there will also be in attendance several members of the American Automotive club of Paris.

This will be the third session of the World Motor Transport Congress.
